Third biker killed

Greater Victoria recorded its third motorcycle fatality in a little over a month Wednesday night when a 21-year-old serviceman died after his bike hit a power pole in the 800-block Esquimalt Road.

Police said the accident occurred at 6:38 p.m. and Plul died in Victoria General Hospital about an hour-and-a-half later.

An inquest is expected to be held but no date has been set.

John Henry Pollard, 21, died June 14 after his motorcycle collided with a car on Sooke Road, and Gordon Bernard Kopplen, 21, was killed following a mishap on Newport Road in Oak Bay on June 1.

Joe gave, Pierre cut

The parties' financial statements for the 1978 calendar year show that Clark contributed $1,025, compared with $675 in 1977.

The statements, filed with the chief electoral officer, also show that the Conservative party attracted individual contributions from 35,615 Canadians, an increase of 15,276 over the previous year and 13,265 more than the Liberal party.

Individual contributions to the Conservative party totalled $2,661,175, compared with $1,742,964 in 1977.

The number of persons contributing to the Liberals, however, increased only slightly. The party received $2,101,716 from 22,350 individuals, compared with $1,983,687 from 21,063 persons the previous year.

Although both parties' receipts increased substantially over 1977, they both entered the 1979 election year with deficits.

Somoza's men admit losses to Sandinistas

By KAREN DeYOUNG

MANAGUA (WP) — Five weeks into a guerrilla offensive, the Nicaraguan National Guard has lost control of substantial portions of the country and according to informed sources is now waiting for President Anastasio Somoza to negotiate a political agreement on its behalf.

Sources close to the Guard and within it said there is now little feeling that lost territory can be regained, at least without substantial outside help.

The Sandinista National Liberation Front, one source said, "has some good options militarily. The cards are now in their favor." The guerrillas control most of northwest Nicaragua, including all border crossings into Honduras.

While the guerrillas retreated last week from Managua under massive government bombardment, they control the important cities of Leon and Masaya and are besieging the Guard in Esteli and in the southern provincial capital of Rivas.

The Guard claims it shot down two light planes just south of Managua, saying they were flown by mercenaries but gave no other details. News reports said the planes carried arms for the guerrillas.

The Costa Rican government said that some of Somoza's soldiers tried to cross into Costa Rica to dynamite two bridges on the Pan American highway to trap the guerrillas in the south, but it said the Sandinistas ambushed and killed all but one of the guards.

The rebels launched their attack on Rivas Tuesday after moving north from a strip of territory along the border they held for weeks. Rivas is 40 kilometres north of the frontier on the Pan-American Highway.

Meanwhile, the Nicaraguan Red Cross repeated its appeal for emergency food assistance. Red Cross vice president Wilfrid Cross estimated the organization is now feeding nearly 200,000 people in Managua.

Cross said a "desperate" transport situation last weekend had been somewhat alleviated over the past few days by emergency food flights from several Latin American countries and leasing by the International Red Cross of two planes.

U.S. Ambassador Lawrence Pezzullo returned to Managua Wednesday morning after two days of consultation in Washington. Although Pezzullo last week asked Somoza to resign, the Sandinistas and opposition political groups here rejected a U.S. plan for the transition of power.

Somoza reportedly agreed to resign, but only on conditions relating to the future of his Liberal Party and the National Guard. While Somoza reportedly was told he was in no position to negotiate his departure, U.S. officials are known to be pressing a Sandinista-backed provisional government to expand its membership to include more moderate political and business sectors.

Gold record topples again

LONDON (AP) — Gold hit a record $286.625 U.S. an ounce in Zurich and London today. The U.S. dollar sank.

The previous trading record for gold was $284.50, registered in London June 25.

The latest prices compared with $283.50 at the close in London Wednesday night — a closing record — and $283.125 in Zurich.

Gold began the year at about $225 an ounce. Bullion experts predict it will soon hit the $300 mark.

The British pound, meanwhile, jumped to $2.252 in London in early trading, its highest value since June, 1975, and up almost three cents from $2.2250 U.S. overnight.

The basic reason for the buoyancy of the pound is Britain's near self-sufficiency in oil, thanks to North Sea reserves.

The U.S. dollar was mostly lower elsewhere, following the July 4 holiday in the United States.

Carter pledges energy action

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — U.S. President Jimmy Carter issued a terse announcement today saying he will propose "a series of strong measures" to curb U.S. demand for imported oil.

The announcement was an apparent attempt to reassure western allies that Carter is not backing down from conservation promises made at the Tokyo summit — a fear raised by his abrupt cancellation of an energy speech scheduled for tonight.

An aide said the statement was issued "to ensure that there is no misunderstanding of the president's intentions."

While no official reason was given for Carter taking the unusual step of cancelling a speech after he had requested special broadcast time for it, one aide told UPI the president apparently "was dissatisfied with the analysis of the issues before him."

Carter has not said when he will reschedule his energy speech.

'Aggressive, complacent' society blamed for rape

Men have been conditioned by society to be rapists and women to be the victims of rape, says a report tabled Wednesday in the legislature.

After two years of research for the attorney-general's ministry, author Nancy Goldsberry says in her 232-page report that rape may be learned behavior because society condones the use of physical aggression and violence under some circumstances.

"That this aggressiveness, if not open violence, is nearly exclusive to men in our society has also been substantiated as the norm and not the exception," the report said.

Ms. Goldsberry, a longtime co-ordinator of the rape relief centre in Victoria, was commissioned to write the report under contract to the Justice Development Commission.

Her report said the process which "moulds and legitimizes" women as rape victims is rooted in the same social structure that characterizes male sexuality as aggressive.

It says that in learning female roles young girls are taught to value sexual favors as an item of exchange.

While men are expected to initiate sexual overtures, women are seen as responsible for defining how far these overtures will go.

"Young women, particularly, with apparent sophistication but limited skills, are left with an unsolvable conflict," she says. "If she refuses, she is a man-hater, cold or a tease. If she plays along, further confusion sets in as she is open for further advances."

Ms. Goldberry also said that contrary to common belief, an increase in sexual permissiveness will lead to increases in the number of rapes.

She said the largest percentage of rapes are committed by an acquaintance of the victim, especially where child rape is concerned.

In 1978, between January and June, 32 child sex abuse cases were reported to the human resources ministry. Of that total, 59 per cent involved a paternal relationship between the child and the suspect ranging from natural and legal fathers to common-law.

The perpetrators and victims in child sex abuse are found in all levels of society with the majority of

Union Club escapes fire action

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

Victoria council's fire protection committee today agreed to serve orders on eight city highrises to upgrade fire safety but shied away from posting fire warnings in the Union Club.

The exclusive club was originally warned of its fire safety deficiencies June 22, 1978.

The committee agreed to bypass posting the eight highrises in order to speed up the possibility of court action, but came to no agreement on how to deal with the Union Club.

The fire chief normally takes three steps before proceeding to court with buildings that are judged unsafe.

The first stage is a notice of deficiencies from the chief, next comes the posting of a public notice, third is a fire chief's order to the building owner to upgrade his property and finally, if no action is forthcoming, the prosecutor is called in.

A number of buildings, including the Empress Hotel were posted last fall after they failed to respond to warning notices from the chief.

The eight highrises due for posting all received their first warnings Nov. 20, 1978.

The committee decided to bypass the public postings because that would give the apartments 60 additional days in which to comply with safety requirements.

Ald. Robin Blencoe told the committee the building owners have already had plenty of time to act.

Blencoe also urged that the Union Club be posted immediately but failed to get support from the rest of the committee.

Ald. Bill Tindall said aldermen should tour the private club, at 805 Gordon Street, before approving the posting of placards.

"We're making an exception with the Union Club," protested Blencoe.

"We should carry out the procedure we followed with the other buildings."

He said the Union Club was warned more than a year ago, and "They know what's coming."

With Blencoe and Tindall opposed, the committee was hamstrung because Ald. Murray Glazier had left the room because he is a member of the club and didn't

Open books or quit, Prentice told

Royal Jubilee Hospital board chairman Terry Prentice must resign unless he is prepared to open the books and allow full public discussion and scrutiny of the hospital's administration, board member Peter Bunn said today.

Bunn said he believes there has been waste and extravagance in the hospital's administration at the expense of medical services.

"But we cannot discuss the issue because everything the board members get is marked confidential. I've seen more confidential stamps in the past six months than I did in my years with the Eighth Army," he said.

The Oak Bay alderman criticized Prentice for saying hospital costs could be reduced if doctors would request fewer operations.

"As a member of the board, I dissociate myself from his statement."

Bunn said it was an unwarranted attack on the Jubilee's doctors and the medical staff, all of whom are first rate.

"Unfortuately they have not been supported by the administration. Money has been pouring into the administration side of the hospital while medical services have been starved. The problem is mismanagement."

Bunn said he has been trying to get Jubilee board meetings opened to the public but without success.

The issue will be debated again at the next board meeting later this month.

Bunn said with the hospital spending $50 million of taxpayers' money a year, the public has a right to know what is going on.

Bunn said Health Minister Bob McClelland has a strong case in saying the hospital should put its own administration in order before seeking additional funding.

At the same time, Bunn said, the provincial government and previous NDP and Social Credit administrations are equally to blame for allowing RJH to be converted to mixed use (acute, intermediate and long-term care) when it was designed to be only an acute-care facility.

If the 150 extended-care beds in the hospital could be converted to acute care, as they were originally designed to be, the hospital's long waiting lists could be substantially reduced.

On Wednesday night the Victoria Labor Council passed a motion condemning McClelland and Prentice for opposing the expansion of medical services at the Jubilee.

The council at the same time said Victoria General Hospital should be commended for its courageous stand in saying that it will not reduce its level of medical care even if it runs into a deficit by year's end.

Iran regime grabs control in big takeover sweep

TEHRAN (AP) — Iran's revolutionary regime announced the takeover of broad segments of the economy today in a sweeping move to nationalize industries that received "illicit benefits" under the shah.

The takeover included major metal-producing industries, ship, airplane and automobile production and mines, and followed the nationalization of banks June 8 and of privately-owned insurance companies June 25.

The state radio broadcast a list of 51 Iranian industrialists, many of them now living abroad, who would be affected most seriously by the latest move.

Premier Mehdi Bazargan said the takeover was not aimed at industries in the country operating on a "sound" private financial basis.

He said the regime of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi had "made the Iranian economy dependent on foreign capitalism," and that the new move was aimed at "decisive action for proper management and removal of problems."

Bazargan also said the new measure was aimed at relieving Iran from dependence on oil revenues, developing employment opportunities and "ending the control of agents of imperialism."

In addition to oil, gas, railways and fisheries — nationalized in previous years — the law adds metal-producing industries and ships, planes and cars to the nationalized industry list.

Bazargan said the metal industries include steel, copper and aluminum up to the rolling stage.

Also nationalized, he said, are "industries and mines which, through illegal connections with the past regime, have made illicit benefits and have plundered public rights and have fled the country."

"The shares of such industrialists will be taken by the government, which will investigate their financial, technical and legal matters. The price of the shares will go to a fund for the improverished if such industries are not indebted to the banks, which now belong to the government."

Look Ma! no more cavities

LONDON (Reuter) — A team of British dental scientists claims to have developed a vaccine for children which could prevent tooth decay.

Professor Bertram Cohen, head of the research department at the dental science department of the Royal College of Surgeons, said the vaccine had been developed after nine years of research using monkeys.

He said four monkeys were immunized with the vaccine nine years ago and five remained untreated. Of five monkeys still alive, three untreated animals had badly decayed teeth. Of the two immunized animals, one had no decay and the other only one decayed tooth surface.

"In my own mind I am optimistic that there is no reason why the vaccine should not be used on human beings with equal success, but we have some further work to carry out before we reach that stage," Cohen told a reporter.

Passes derailed

OTTAWA (CP) — VIA Rail, the Crown agency trying to turn money-losing rail passenger service into a money-making business, has declared all-out war on passes.

At one time there were "thousand and thousands" of Canadians who received free passage aboard passenger trains operated by the Canadian National Railways and CP Rail according to a VIA spokesman.

In addition to railway employees who received them as a condition of work, the free riders included dependents of the rail workers, newspaper reporters, police chiefs, MPs and senators and their dependents, customs officials, many federal government departments and various others.

Inevitable abuses of the passes led the two railway companies themselves to shorten the list of pass holders. One railway official says the CNR began getting tough when one of its unions demanded a special train so its delegates could attend a winter convention in Florida.

Recent contracts between the railways and their workers spell out that the workers are entitled to free trips on VIA trains. But the railways also have agreed to pay VIA for these trips, a major victory for VIA.

Recent decisions by VIA management have cut those entitled to passes to MPs, the Canadian transport commission, senators and members of the household of the Governor-General.

Among those losing pass privileges in these moves are members of provincial legislatures who for decades were permitted free passage on trains within their provinces.

Informants say that VIA even held out against issuing passes to parliamentarians. VIA wanted the same deal as the major airlines — tickets would be issued to MPs and senators and then a bill sent to cover their costs.

That didn't work because a clause in the Railway Act says MPs, senators and their dependents are to receive passes on trains coming under federal jurisdiction.

But the fact remains that the once-common rail pass has become a scarce commodity.

2nd Falmouth fire investigated

Fire officials are investigating a blaze which caused $15,000 damage to a home at 1036 Falmouth Wednesday night.

The fire was the second in the home this year.

Chief Art Fryer said the latest fire, reported at 10:30 p.m., started behind a clothes dryer in the kitchen and spread to the adjoining living room by the time firemen arrived.

Fryer said occupant Mrs. Elizabeth Fryfogel smelled smoke, saw the fire and, ran with her five-year-old daughter Penny to a neighbor's house for help.

Fryer said the cause of the blaze has yet to be determined.

It's V-6 for victory at Cadillac

DETROIT (AP) — The trend toward the trim and compact in many car lines is catching on at Cadillac, where the next option available could be a model with a six-cylinder engine.

The trade publication Metalworking News reported Monday that the Cadillac Division of General Motors Corp. has alerted machine tool suppliers it is thinking about producing a V-6 engine.

Metalworking News said Cadillac could put a V-6 into the Seville and Eldorado models in 1983 if it made up its mind to do so, though 1984 was more likely.

Cadillac introduced the industry's first V-8 in 1914, and has offered nothing but V-8s since the Second World War, though in the 1930s it offered a V-16.

Its smallest engine now is a 5.7-litre 350 cubic inches V-8, though a 4.1-litre 250 cubic inches model is in the works.

Other GM divisions make a total of four V-6 engines.

Cave-in traps man

A Worker's Compensation Board safety inspector was called today to investigate a cave-in that sent a Saanich municipal workman to hospital with undetermined injuries.

Merv Clayton was reported in good condition undergoing treatment at Royal Jubilee Hospital's emergency unit.

A Saanich fire department spokesman said Clayton was working in a ditch at Sims and Seaton at about 8:30 a.m. when a wall collapsed, burying him to his shoulders in sand and gravel.

Alberta dryer than ever

EDMONTON (CP) — Beer production in Alberta became almost a thing of the past today as bitter unionists at Labatt's Alberta Brewery and Carling O'Keefe Breweries joined the ranks of the unemployed.

The 400 workers at the two companies were laid off this morning after Alberta Brewers' Agents Ltd. locked out all 180 beer distribution workers Wednesday.

ABA distributes all beer produced in the province by Labatt's, Carling O'Keefe and Molson's. Spokesmen for the breweries, which operate ABA, say they can't afford to make beer and not distribute it.

Only Uncle Ben's Breweries of Alberta Ltd. in Red Deer is still in operation. The company, which accounts for only a tiny portion of the province's beer market, is separate from ABA.

Molson Alberta Brewery Ltd. workers in Edmonton entered their ninth day on strike today in a dispute over length of contract.

"The companies are holding the public as hostages just because there is a labor dispute at one plant (Molson's)," said Bill Flookes, Carling O'Keefe union president.

"The three companies are simply working together as one in this dispute."

BCR profits up

VANCOUVER (CP) — An operating profit of nearly $6.29 million was recorded by British Columbia Railway in 1978 to continue an improving trend over the past two years, the Crown corporation said today.

Offsetting the operating peformance, interest costs on outstanding debts continued to climb, rising from less than $48 million in 1977 to more than $54.3 million in 1978.

The result was a net loss for 1978, after interest and other charges, of slightly more than $46.8 million, down from the $58 million net loss reported the previous year.

The railway reported an operating loss of more than $21 million in 1976, but the picture improved in 1977 when it had an operating loss of $8.45 million.

Mysterious space 'blob' may be drawing Earth in LONDON (Reuter) — Two British astronomers say they have discovered evidence of a mysterious blob of matter deep in outer space, 10 times larger than the biggest cluster of galaxies yet perceived by scientists.

Andy Fabian of Cambridge University and Bob Warwick of Leicester University said x-rays detected by a British satellite, Ariel 5, indicate the existence of a huge, unexplained mass located perhaps 10 billion light years from earth.

Our galaxy's nearest neighbor, the Andromeda Galaxy, is two million light years away.

The mystery object might be pulling our own and our neighboring galaxies toward it by the force of its gravity, the astronomers say in a report in Nature Magazine.

The report says a hitherto unlocated galaxy, much closer to earth than the supposed blob, might be the source of the x-rays.

But other recent evidence, from scientists at the University of California at Berkeley, suggests that earth is moving relative to background microwave radiation from space.

The gravitational pull of the blob would explain this.

Will the earth collide with the mystery object, or "inhomogenity" as the researchers call it?

Fabian said this would depend on the nature and duration of the universe. If it did happen it would not be for millions of years.

But it probably won't help the current U.S. gas shortage much.

The winning vehicle, entered by students at London's King's college, was a cigar-shaped tube 13 inches high, as wide as a man's shoulders, running on three bicycle wheels with the driver prone.

Its power plant was a 50cc Honda motorbike engine.

The occasion was an annual contest sponsored by Shell Oil Co. and motoring magazines to find the cheapest possible way in terms of gas consumption of driving 10 times around the Mallory Park racing circuit at Mallory Park, Leicestershire, at an average of 20 km/h or more.

Tom Dooley CIA agent

Fame flared quickly and faded fast in the 1950s for jungle doctor Tom Dooley, and a Roman Catholic inquiry toward making him a saint now has found that the jungle doctor regularly fed reports on Southeast Asians to the CIA. "He'd give information about troops being moved, ammunition coming in, attitudes of people — whether they were favorable to the Americans or to the Communists," says Rev. Maynard Kegler, U.S. promoter of the cause of Dooley's sainthood. Kegler, director of a retreat house in Buffalo, Minn., started the push to make Dooley a saint in 1975, and says almost 500 CIA documents obtained through the Freedom of Information Act reveal the links to the intelligence agency. Dooley, in one of his popular books, had dismissed suspicion of such espionage activity as "absurd," attributing it to Communists. However, in the CIA documents, his accounts of Communist atrocities were criticized by government officials as "non-factual and exaggerated."

Keeping it in the family, Mark Smith Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., was elected president of the 300,000-member Kiwanis International at its annual convention meeting in Toronto Wednesday. Smith is the son of former Kiwanis president, the late Mark Smith, which marks the first time that a father and son have both been presidents of the international service club umbrella group.

The body of the youngest son of Jacques Cousteau today went to a deep resting place in the sea he loved and explored with his father and shared with the world on film. The Cousteau family, aboard the Portuguese naval vessel Baptistá de Andrade, accompanied the body of 37-year-old Philippe Cousteau, killed in the crash of a Second World War-vintage Catalina in the Tagus River a week ago. After a simple, five-minute Roman Catholic service at the Church of Saint Louis in Lisbon, a four-car cortege transported the silver and gold brocade draped lead casket to the tiny Tagus estuary port of Trafaria. Leading the cortege were Cousteau, 69; his wife Simone; Philippe's widow Janine and Michel, his only brother. They boarded the warship and made a three-hour voyage to a point 30 km away for a ceremony that sent the casket into the sea at a depth of 1,200 fathoms.

Let's say you're recently divorced and you're getting lonely. So you advertise for a "housekeeper with view to marriage." She must be about 30, brunette, measure 36-24-36 and be "witty and able to look after an intelligent man in his old age." Fat chance, huh? Not if you're millionaire Horace Langford of Buckinghamshire, England, who's drawn 800 responses. "Please, please, no more," he pleads. "I have got enough women to start two harems." Langford's already got the field whittled down to three finalists. The guy must work fast.

Maybe it was how he proposed, but whatever it was, teenybop singing star Marie Osmond has had second thoughts and is breaking off her engagement with Jeff Crayton. Miss Osmond, 19, told fans during an autograph session at a July Fourth celebration in Montgomery, Ala.: "Marriage is a serious thing you don't want to fool around with. We had doubts so we called it off." Crayton, 23, a bit-part actor from Los Angeles, proposed May 28 after throwing a banana cream pie in her face at the Osmond studio in Orem, Utah. They had planned to be married in the Mormon Temple in Salt Lake City in August.

Jet-setting heiress Christina Onassis has finally taken her Soviet husband home for a look at her native land. The millionairess and husband Sergei Kauzov arrived in Athens Wednesday on Kauzov's first visit to Greece since they married in Moscow almost a year ago. Speaking to reporters outside the Onassis villa in Athens soon after arrival from Paris, the 28-year-old Mrs. Kauzov said: "We have come to stay for quite a while. We intend having a good rest and hope you newsmen will let us do so." A member of the villa staff told reporters the couple plans to spend several days at the Onassis-owned island of Skorpios in the Ionian Sea, where Christina's father and her brother are buried.

And finally, following a bout with pneumonia, John Diefenbaker was discharged from a Prince Albert hospital Wednesday and returned to Ottawa in fighting trim. The 83-year-old former Conservative prime minister, who was given an honorary black belt from Judo Canada last week, joked with reporters that he was ready to take his old parliamentary foe, former Liberal prime minister Pierre Trudeau, to the mats. Trudeau, 59, is proficient in judo.

Slats barring DC-10 flights

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Federal Aviation Administrator Langhorne Bond said Wednesday that wing slats, which apparently malfunctioned on the DC-10 involved in the worst air disaster in U.S. history, are the main obstacle to putting the jetliners back into the air.

Bond, speaking to reporters at Los Angeles International Airport after he returned here from Washington D.C., said he will have to decide whether the slat malfunction was a freak occurrence or one which might happen again.

The wing slats extend on takeoff and landing to provide greater lift. In the May 25 crash in Chicago, in which an engine fell off the left wing of the DC -10 during takeoff, one slat extended but the one on the left wing did not, creating unequal lift.

The crash claimed 273 lives and resulted in the groundings of 138 U.S.-registered DC-10s. Foreign-operated DC-10s are banned from landing in the U.S.

Bond has said he will remain in Los Angeles until the DC-10 investigation at the McDonnell Douglas Corp. plant in nearby Long Beach is concluded. However, he said he will return to Washington this weekend or early next week for Senate hearings.

FAA investigators have said they are writing the final report on the DC-10 to determine whether the jetliner will have to be redesigned.

Inappropriate behavior

The actions of deputy attorney-general Dick Vogel in talking to a provincial court judge about a case before him are not in the same league as the judges' affairs that rocked Ottawa a couple of years ago. Nonetheless, the phone call Vogel made to Judge R.B. Govan is not appropriate behavior for the second-highest law enforcement officer in B.C.

According to New Democratic Party MLA Stu Leggatt, who first raised the matter in the legislature, Vogel phoned Govan to ask him if he wouldn't like to disqualify himself from a case in which he was already writing the judgment.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom admits that Vogel made the call, saying the deputy's purpose was to explain the ministry's approach in the case and to ask him to disqualify himself. That, the minister says, does not constitute interference with the judicial process.

Obviously the end result of the case wasn't changed by Vogel's action. Govan refused to disqualify himself, went ahead with his judgment, and even mentioned in it the phone call from Vogel. The government is now asking the B.C. supreme court to review the decision, which is exactly the procedure that should have been followed in the first place.

That, however, isn't the point. The point is that had Govan agreed to Vogel's request, the course of justice in B.C. would have taken a rather different course than the one taken by a completely free and independent judiciary.

A situation where that can happen should not be allowed to occur.

If the government has made an error in drafting a new law, it must live with that error and rectify it through the legislative process. It must not try to avoid the consequences of its mistake by "explaining" its position to the judge and trying to persuade him to withdraw rather than rule against the government.

No harm has been done in this particular instance, but Gardom should make clear to Vogel that in future phone calls to judges pressuring them about cases are not allowed.

A flight of fancy

One of the most high-soaring flights of fancy to emerge from Victoria city hall in some time must surely be the proposal of a civil servant for relocation of the old bank building at the corner of Douglas and Bay Streets.

The proposal, as outlined by the city's urban development officer, is essentially a simple one: a number of other companies and governments donate all sorts of money and services to the city for relocation of the building; the city then plays developer and sells the relocated building for a huge profit, probably a minimum of $100,000.

It's a great idea . . . if only all the other parties involved could be persuaded to go along. The bank, for instance, is not only supposed to sell the building for a nominal sum but also to pick up the costs (estimated at $28,000) of moving it.

B.C. Hydro is expected to absorb the costs of raising any power lines to move the building to its new site.

And the Urban Renewal Partnership, an odd conglomerate of federal, provincial and municipal governments, is expected to give the city the land for the building to stand on, land it has been trying to sell for $92,000.

The urban development officer writes optimistically that "indications are that the senior governments may [his emphasis] grant the property to the city if we were to redevelop the property in keeping with the spirit of urban renewal, such as the move of the old bank building."

Yet it somehow seems doubtful that the federal and provincial governments would think $100,000 in profits for the city was entirely in the spirit of urban renewal, even if an old building was preserved on the site.

Estimates are that the city could make a profit of about $35,000 even without receiving the extra benefits from the other parties. It should be satisfied with that and not try to use its civic status to make developers' windfall profits.

Not too fast, now

Sitting over a plate of spaghetti, you may have wondered at the absence in B.C. of an inexpensive but palatable equivalent of the good California jug wines or the drinkable vin du pays of Europe's wine-producing countries.

Puzzle no more. One provincial (in both definitions of the word) winery says the reason is British Columbians don't want to be spoiled too fast by local wines.

Robert Holt, vice-president of Ste. Michelle Wines, which is scouring California for grapes because B.C. vines were heavily damaged by frost last winter, said his winery wouldn't use this opportunity to upgrade the quality of its wines by importing better grapes.

Wine drinkers prefer a consistent product and would stop buying if their favorite wine suddenly improved, according to Holt.

This is by far the most interesting explanation of the B.C. wineries' slowness to improve their wines. Will it be another decade before we get something nice with fish? Ste. Michelle's answer seems to be yes.

Dandelion season has passed, but blackberries should be ripe in a few weeks. We also hear that Okanagan pears make a passable dry white. To your health, mother.

JAMES RESTON

The decline of the USSR

PARIS — Raymond Aron, one of France's most distinguished journalists and teachers, has just published in English a remarkable book with the odd title In Defence of Decadent Europe. Henry Kissinger calls it "one of the most important intellectual statements of our time."

Aron, professor of the sociology of modern civilization at the College de France in Paris, had trouble with that title. It might have been called more simply The Decline of the East, for it recalls Oswald Spengler's gloomy analysis of The Decline of the West, but while Aron is not an excessively modest man, he apparently didn't want to claim such a comparison.

His theme is that the Western nations, because of their troubles, their divisions, and the fascination of many of their intellectuals with the "lyrical illusion" of Marxist mystification, are unaware of their own superiority as compared to the record of the Soviet Union.

West took lead

"In terms of productivity, technical innovation, living standards, scientific progress and human freedom," Aron writes, "it is the West — the United States and Europe together — which took the lead during the course of the last 30 years."

He adds: "The Communist party (of the USSR) has paid an exorbitant price for building its large-scale industry, but the USSR continues to depend on the United States for food, on the West for its technological innovations and on its ubiquitous police for keeping order and orthodoxy.

"If the virtues of an economic regime are measured by its capacity to answer the wishes of the population, organize the rational allocation of resources, and efficiently produce the goods necessary to the physical and moral well-being of individual people, the Soviet experience remains to this day the most spectacular failure in history."

Aron does not mimimize the impressive progress made by the Soviet system in the production of weapons and in achieving a rough equality with the United States in the balance of nuclear power. But it bothers him that the West keeps thinking primarily about the Communist military threat and pays so little attention to he failure of the Soviet economic system that no longer commands the respect even of most Communists in Eruope.

He does not blink the weaknesses of the West in general and Western Europe in particular — their loss of respect for authority, their mindless selfishness and materialism, their inability to deal with the problems of inflation and unemployment, or what he calls "the social failure of the economic success."

SOVIET SAILORS
. . . USSR still a weak nation

In some ways, he insists, the decadence of Western Europe is beyond doubt. He points to the fact that, in spite of its wealth, Western Europe as a whole does not think it is capable of defending itself and entreats the United States to ensure the political balance by the maintenance of an American army in Western Europe.

Nevertheless, Aron points out, the men in the Kremlin need the "creativity of decadent Europe," for in the fields of scientific and technological achievement, they are merely "hanging on by imitations and borrowing."

"It is in strife-torn Western Europe," he insists, "that productivity grows more rapidly and workers submit to the exigencies of rationality. It is in the Soviet Union — where a few men at the summit of the state settle the fate cf tens of millions of their fellow-Russians without having to account to anyone — that factories employ twice the manpower of German and American factories, even when they are using the same equipment.

"In order to play host to the Olympic Games, the Soviet Union has asked Western capitalists and engineers to build the hotels it needs and the foreign firms will even import workers to hold down the anticipated delays."

Optimistic theme

Aron is not by any means saying we have nothing to fear from the Soviet Union, which has created an empire while the Western nations have lost theirs. There is always the danger — though he doesn't make the point — that the Soviet leaders might be tempted to challenge the West in the military field precisely because they are steadily falling behind in other fields. But in general, his is an optimistic theme well worth studying in the United States where so much rubbish is being taught these days about the decline of the West and the rise of Soviet power.

"Both now and in the foreseeable future," he concludes, "the USSR's leaders will remain fiercely hostile to the West because they envy and simultaneously despise it. As ideologues, they envy its productivity and standard of living; as men in power they despise its permanent unrest and its rulers condemned to paying court to the masses.

"Failing a favorable opportunity, such as the resignation of the United States, the men in the Kremlin will not rush into any open military aggression against decadent, fascinating Western Europe, which disappoints the dissidents by its frivolity but nevertheless, constitutes a standing accusation of a regime which is so unsure of itself that it is afraid of its own citizens."

Pro-Life replies

What we find most seriously inaccurate in the June 23 Weekend magazine article entitled The Lost Cause is the assertion that in the May 22 general election our efforts were even less effective than in the 1978 federal byelections because only 193 of the total 1,424 candidates running in the general election throughout Canada gave solid "yes" answers to our two questions asking about their support for much more restrictive abortion laws.

What should have been pointed out in the article (for it was pointed out to the Weekend interviewer one month age) was that 72 of the 195 candidates who gave solid "yes" answers to both questions were elected. Since then we have received from a number of other MPs assurances that had the issue been brought to their attention during the election campaign, they would have answered "yes." In addition, it should now be noted that approximately 90 more elected MPs who were not endorsed as "pro-life" because of unacceptable qualifications to the two questions, nevertheless, have strongly indicated that they would support a more restrictive abortion law.

It is simply untrue to suggest that our election efforts were not effective. At least 72 pro-life MPs have been elected who will for the first time provide a solid basis to change the federal law so as to protect the lives of unborn children.

Furthermore, it is unfair to suggest that our efforts during the '78 byelections were ineffective. On the contrary, it was due to our efforts during the byelections that the pro-life movement came to be recognized as a significant political force.

It is totally unfounded to state that "The opponents to legalized abortion are, perhaps, fewer than in 1969 . . ." Apart from the increased memberships in pro-life educational and political groups over the past few years, all one has to do is look at the number today. In 1969 in Canada there were less than five established groups. Today there are over 130 such established groups.

More and more people are beginning to wake up to the fact that the most basic right of all is the right to life, and that we, as a society, do not have the right to take the lives of other human beings simply because they are small, underdeveloped, physically dependent, and inconvenient.

If the title of the Weekend article is correct, that the pro-life cause is "the lost cause," then the public would not be growing more and more receptive to the pro-life point of view, we would have no hope of securing legal protection for such vulnerable groups as the unborn child, and indeed, as a free society, we would be lost. — Paul Formby, National Co-ordinator, Campaign Life Canada, Toronto.

Energy crisis

Is it possible for a moment to conceive of the events of the world as action taking place within a vast cosmic script, the actors assuming they have some control over that action, but in fact in spite of free will, being subject to destiny and to a necessary law of action and reaction that fulfills itself both in the collective and individual experience of man?

If we thus view the present energy crisis, we may find a metaphor that will enable us to benefit from the pressure of this event.

Western industrialized man has for a long time exploited nature for his own material needs. It is as if man has assumed natural resources exist in an infinite supply and are there to be used in proportion to man's desires for comfort, for satisfying the requirements of his lifestyle. This without any sensitivity to the natural balance or relationship that exists between exploitation and its effects on the earth.

Now in terms of the script, western man is being confronted by the sense of isolated egohood that made him believe he could live on this planet without feeling any sense of appreciation for how that planet served, nourished, supported him — the feeling that would humble him, and partially create the sense of interrelatedness that would link him to the mystery of his origin, to the mystery of his own unfathomable existence. After all he is made of the elements of the earth, is the most intelligent resource of nature, the one creature capable of affecting the universe so as to transform that universe — both creatively and destructively.

The OPEC countries naturally relish the power they can exert on the major industrial nations. No doubt they act out of a sense of enjoying that pressure they can bring to bear on countries who egos have never before been subject to the whims of smaller countries. Rather than condemning their actions, however, we should understand this action to be part of the script. They are the instruments of our fate, and ultimately we can, because of their response, learn to restructure our relationship with the earth, restructure it in such a way so as to insure our prosperity, but within a design that drives us into a more profound sense of that relationship.

We are "evolution made aware of itself," and as such must demonstrate to nature our willingness to change our habits of ego-separateness.

It is thus a tremendous challenge we face now in developing new sources of energy, in conserving our present sources of energy; but instead of lamenting this fact, we should perhaps consider our present condition as but the reminder of our place in the scheme of things, and the physical fact that expresses a much more powerful truth; that we must be more thoughtful, unselfish, and creative in order to deserve the miracle of our existence. — Robin Carlsen, 1225 Sunnyside Avenue.

Wolf killing

It doesn't seem right that one man, Mr. Mair, should be able to decide that wolves, or any other animals, should be killed, particularly not by the cruel method of poisoning.

Also how does Mr. Mair propose to make sure that no other animals eat the poison?

The most dangerous animal in the world is man; no other animal kills for fun and pleasure or profit or because they "don't like" a certain group of animals or they feel they are "inconvenient."

Wolves have been much maligned and misunderstood and people who feel this idea of killing them is wrong should write to Mr. Mair and tell him so. — E. Wakefield, 501-1950 Bee Street.

With pleasure

It is a pleasure to reply to those who have taken issue with my letter concerning Mr. Fryer and the B.C. Government Employees Union with the suggestion that a referendum be held to consider the union's future if they decide on strike action.

Its constitution apparently states it will be nonpartisan. However it also states that it will be an affiliate of the Canadian Labor Congress and B.C. Federation of Labor.

It cannot be denied that the CLC and B.C. Fed. were actively and aggressively supported the NDP in the recent elections. This being so, the BCGEU should have withdrawn and officers of the union should have resigned from the office they held in the congress and federation.

One critic states all government employees take an oath of allegiance to the Crown. I concede this but some employees I know are unaware of this condition of employment.

Possibly Mr. Fryer should devote some of the space he usually occupies in the union's periodical The Provincial to explain to the membership how they can ignore their conscience and integrity when an oath of allegiance conflicts with strike action, pickets and the crossing of picket lines.

Another critic accuses me of being rich and wanting to "water the workingman's beer." This is so far from the facts I must expose part of my background. When I joined the armed forces in 1940 I was a secretary of what could be described as a local branch of our union, earning $998 per year, less deduction for superannuation. Hours of work, 60 hours one week, 72 hours the next, necessary overtime was not paid.

Discharged in 1946, returned to government employment at $160 per month, hours of work undefined and soon became chairman of the resolutions committee and eventually a negotiator on behalf of the union. With this record, I think I can claim to have worked to improve the standard of living of government employees during the early struggle which has contributed to the present day improvement.

My concern is that the degree of satisfaction and even of complacency of those employees whose wages have doubled since 1973 will permit leadership imbued with political hostility to present a confrontation which will not only hurt the union but the general public.

How do we who have no threats to offer keep up with inflation? The cause of inflation is the continuing increase in costs which in large measure is wages.

The improved financial position of the wage earner enables them to compete for goods which fire the inflationary trend.

Government employees provide service but are materially non-productive thus contributing nothing to that lifeline of our national survival, the gross national product.

We must plan to reduce costs under our control with a balanced budget.

The check-off for union dues of the BCGEU must amount to approximately $5 million per year. no wonder Fryer throws his weight around.

If they start getting rough I would suggest the check-off be rescinded and let them collect their own dues. I am sure many members of the union must question the need for one per cent charge on their salary. — Ken Burns, 401-640 Dallas Road.

Boat people are foreigners in Southeast Asia

By MARK FRANKLAND
The Observer

The hardest thing to understand is why the Indo-China refugees, who seem so pathetic to the Western world, are thought so undesirable both by Vietnam, the country that is getting rid of most of them, and nearby countries to which they are fleeing.

The principal explanation is that the majority of the boat people are of Chinese origin. This makes them, in most of Southeast Asia, as foreign as a European in the Arab world.

Their culture is different, their language impenetrable. They eat odd food (which in Muslim countries like Malaysia and Indonesia may also be taboo) in an odd way, with chopsticks.

Their puritan attitudes to work, education and family make them formidable Communists and equally formidable capitalists. With the exception of Indo-China, the brains and often the brawn of the Southeast Asian Communist parties have been provided by Chinese. Chinese businessmen, though they may sometimes act behind local front men, dominate most of Southeast Asia's commerce and industry.

Vietnamese distrust of the Chinese has always been special because Vietnam, though an offshoot of Chinese civilization, has achieved national identity by defying China.

Most of Vietnam's Chinese are in the South. Before Saigon fell in 1975 there were about one-and-a-half million, mostly in Cholon (Saigon's Chinatown) and other southern cities. They controlled the rice trade. Their young men tried to avoid military service, sometimes fleeing to Hong Kong by help of a boat trade that was the model for the present exodus.

The Saigon government suspected (usually wrongly) that they were Communist and forced them to take Vietnamese nationality. The rich Chinese tried to corrupt the government (and some American officials, too), while the government in turn put the squeeze on them.

Although far closer to the Chinese in language and culture than any of the other Southeast Asians, the Vietnamese could neither penetrate nor compete with the Chinese commercial community.

1975 victory

The Communist victory in the South in 1975 made matters worse. United Vietnam quarrelled with China, largely because neither wanted the other to dominate Laos and Cambodia, the other two Indo-Chinese states.

And Vietnam's decision last year to socialize the South rapidly destroyed the livelihood of most Chinese, be they bankers or owners of a little noodle shop. (These socialist measures hit Vietnamese businessmen and peasants with equal force.)

Since the early summer of 1978, 230,000 people, including most of North Vietnam's small Chinese community plus hill tribes people distrusted by Hanoi, have crossed into China, or so China claims. Negotiations between Hanoi and Peking to allow evacuation of Chinese from the South by ship broke down.

At least 300,000 of the southern Vietnamese Chinese have left in boats over the first year — the figures are not definite because up to half may have died in some escapes, particularly on the dangerous route to Malaysia (since 1975, 300,000 other Indo-Chinese refugees have been re-settled, mainly in America and France).

The authoritative Far Eastern Economic Review, published in Hong Kong, has discovered a great deal of evidence about how the Vietnamese authorities supervise and tax this illegal emigration. It suggests that Hanoi can, if it wishes, slow down the flight. And it establishes that each refugee enriches the Vietnamese treasury by four taels of gold, or one thousand dollars.

There are probably at least some 800,000 Chinese still left in South Vietnam most of whom, particularly after China's invasion of Vietnam, must surely want to leave. It is clearly in Vietnam's political and financial interest to let them go.

No wonder, then, that Hong Kong, Thailand and Malaysia are signalling frantically that they will not take any more boat people.

Malaysia

Malaysia has more than 90,000 boat people, mostly in wretched camps. To ruling Malays committed to diminishing the power of their own Chinese, who are a third of the population, this looks disastrous. The Malays have security worries, too, for their Communist guerrillas are and always have been largely Chinese.

Thailand has nearly 300,000, 40,000 from Cambodia (the same amount have been forced back over the border); the remainder are divided roughly between Laotians, mainly hill tribes people, and Sino-Vietnamese. This is a recipe for trouble in a country which already has a Communist-led insurgency (backed by China, though it could be taken over by Vietnam) and problems with its minorities. It explains why Thais, like Malays, have accused Hanoi of plotting to subvert them.

Neither Vietnamese nor Southeast Asian attitudes to the refugees can be changed easily because all believe their national survival is at stake. Over-extended in Laos and Cambodia, fearing another war with China, faced by terrible economic (and in the South political) problems, Hanoi has every reason to get rid of "disloyal" Chinese and its own disgruntled southern bourgoisie.

The Thais, with a common border with Laos and Cambodia, feel they could easily be drawn into the Indo-China conflict and the Sino-Soviet brawl that envelops it. This explains their extreme ruthlessness in forcing Cambodians back across the border.

Packed aboard fish junks, Vietnamese refugees wait to land in Hong Kong

How Hong Kong has helped

By JOHN FRASER

The Globe and Mail

HONG KONG — The first thing that hits you is the numbers. No account, no picture and certainly no statistics prepare you for the spectacle of so many living bodies crammed into such small spaces.

On first seeing the boat people of Vietnam in this refugee-beleaguered city, there is only one immediate sensation — shock.

And then there is the smell. The stench of people when they first come off their wretched tiny craft at the main transit camp in Hong Kong harbor is revolting and nauseating.

The transit camp in Hong Kong consists of four large warehouses alongside the main government dock on Kowloon side of Hong Kong. In the background, the gleaming skyscrapers of the city sparkle in the sunlight. Two short blocks away, at the ocean terminal pier, tourists from all over the world are buying some of the finest jewelry, cameras, antiques or electronic equipment that money can buy.

If the agony of the people of Vietnam sits strangely on this great commercial and trading centre, you won't hear it itemized by the refugees. They all know they are the luckiest ones.

The majority of the boat people are presumed dead before they arrive anywhere. Those who have gone to other countries such as Malaysia or Indonesia have received grudging help from improverished governments that has now transformed itself into belligerent hostility. Hong Kong alone has stood the test of humanity and 60,000 refugees know it.

It is perhaps easier to appreciate the burden to Hong Kong of this situation by realizing that it has about the same land mass as Metropolitan Toronto with three times the population (approximately six million versus two million). If you have that firmly fixed in your mind, the next thing to grapple is the singular fact that only 18 per cent of Hong Kong's land mass is habitable. The rest is mountain. Once that is assimilated, you can also consider the far more serious refugee problem from mainland China.

Because of the sensitive political relationship between the colony and the Communist regime in Peking, it is not called a "refugee problem" but that's what it is. In the past year and a half more than 100,000 unwanted but technically legal immigrants have come here while a greater number have sneaked in illegally. The resiliency of Hong Kong in the face of this stupendous crisis is nothing short of miraculous.

The transit camp I saw best typifies that spirit. Despite the fact that more than 10,000 tense and desperate souls are jammed together, order is maintained by barely a dozen police on any particular shift. Another two dozen volunteers — nurses, church and service club personnel, assist. After processing, the refugees are all given a place to sleep somewhere in the sheds. Sanitary toilets are maintained, tons of food are doled out each day and everyone has a chance for a full shower at least once every two days.

The cost of all this is a tremendous drain on the Hong Kong treasury. Money set aside annually to cope with possible typhoon disasters, for example, has been diverted to cope with this crisis.

If a bad typhoon season comes this year, it will be a disaster unprecendented in Hong Kong's history. For one thing, all the available space for typhoon victims is crammed with refugees.

The predominantly Chinese population of Hong Kong understands the full ramifications of the crisis only too well. Their own social services are directly affected and plans for increased housing developments which are sorely needed have been postponed.

Who sliced that golf ball through Peking window?

By JAY MATHEWS
The Washington Post

PEKING — Bob Hope had just finished rehearsal with three Chinese comedians who will guest star on his three-hour China special on NBC this fall, a daring mix of song, dance and wisecracks in a land where comedy never was king.

"The Chinese comics are getting such a kick out of it, because they've been out of the business a long time," Hope said. "One was in jail for seven years and the other had to work as a doorman."

Vice-Premier Deng Xiaoping has not been invited to do a soft shoe, but Hope has other plans for destroying the last vestiges of China's grave and sombre revolutionary image. He walks about town swinging a golf club, an unknown device in the land of ping-pong. He trades quips with Art Buchwald on the spot where thousands once rioted.

In Tien An Men Square, he does a Gilbert and Sullivan takeoff at the summer palace once burned by British troops and lectures former Red Guards at Peking University on the secret of getting a laugh. Chairman Mao liked to talk about contradictions, but he never saw anything like this.

Big Bird at the zoo

"We got Big Bird flying in this week for the show. You know, from Sesame Street," Hope said. "The idea is I'm going to the zoo to see the pandas. I pass by a cage and there's Big Bird. He yells, 'Hey, get me out of here. I lost my passport.' We got a whole routine about them trying to fatten him up."

"We had a little trouble explaining this to the Chinese," said production co-ordinator Marcia Lewis. "They wanted to put Big Bird in a cage full of condors and other dangerous things. We had to explain there was really a man (Carroll Spinney) inside the bird suit."

Hope, with the help of writers Gig Henry and Bob Mills, is borrowing shamelessly from old movie routines.

But of course, the Chinese don't know that. The Chinese comics, playing bellhops, bring Hope's bags up to his suite at the Peking Hotel. One is straining under the load. "Sorry, that's my make-up," says Hope. Another bag flies open, and hundreds of ping-pong balls fall out. "Well, they said I could get them wholesale," Hope says.

Hope begins to try to teach them a golf stroke, provoking Chinese puzzlement and mirth. "Eight million dollars for lessons and they have to laugh," he says.

Hope hits the golf ball, shattering his hotel window. The manager, in suitable Mao jacket, rushes in but not before Hope has handed the club to one of the bellhops and pointed him out as the culprit.

In a brief trip to Shanghai, Hope watched two Chinese comedians do some of their own material. It was a dialogue full of broad humor about a census taker interviewing a man with far more children than the party approves of. "They were a standout," Hope said. "I don't care where you are, the timing always stands out. Mr. Li and Mr. Yuan, they did Laurel and Hardy."

After more than a week here, Hope said he was used to not being recognized. "It's a rest, it's a great cure for the big head," he said. The motion inspires one of the sketches for the show, a meeting between Hope and a very dour Chinese working in Tien An Men Square.

Worker: "Umph."

Guide: (to Hope) "He's part of our friendship program."

Democracy wall

The script also calls for a Hope appearance at Peking's famed Democracy Wall, where dozens gather each day to read wall posters commenting on Mao or detailing personal grievances against the government. There has been some suspicion in recent weeks that the government no longer takes the wall very seriously. The sketch, approved by government officials, tends to confirm that.

"I'd like a few laughs," he appeals to the Chinese crowd. One of the Chinese comedians runs up and deftly draws a mustache on Hope's photo.

In an effort to close the recognition gap, Hope brought with him two of his vintage movies, Monsieur Beaucaire (1945) and Son of Paleface (1950):

"They kind of frown on that second one because of Jane Russell and the big knockers," Hope said.

Chinese TV crews

Chinese television crews, guided by producer-director Bob Wynn, are going all over Peking and Shanghai to record pieces for the special, but much of the time will be taken up by a gala concert.

The show was to include Crystal Gayle, Shields and Yarnell, Peaches and Herb, and Mikhail Baryshnikov dancing with a Chinese ballet company.

Hope said he had been trying to come to China since 1973. Henry Kissinger had advised him to write to the Embassy of the People's Republic of China in Ottawa, but he forgot to include the word "People's" in the address and it was routed to a Taiwan office instead.

"I had all my friends working on it, writing letters and recommending me, but then the reply came back from the Chinese, 'What is Bob Hope going to do to entertain the Chinese?' So we didn't get a favorable response until I thought of having a forum with the college students here on humor," Hope said.

Hope has done shows in Moscow, Casablanca and Tokyo, but this is a bit different. In his three-minute dialogue on the show, Buchwald tells Hope: "You have to come to China, it's a status thing. You can't live in Washington now and say you haven't been to China. I just had to come to hold up my head."

His performance safely preserved on tape, Buchwald later remarked: "Hope's rather frustrated because he's not too well recognized here. We did that dialogue surrounded by TV equipment and a big Chinese crowd. Then Hope finished and he walked away.

Police praise boy's rescuer

A 14-year-old Coquitlam boy has been praised by city police for his rescue of a drowning seven-year-old boy at Fisherman's Wharf in James Bay Tuesday night.

Chief Jack Gregory said Wednesday he will send Russell William Roemer a letter commending him for his actions.

Russell, who is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. L.J. Larsen of 27 Erie, was walking along logs with his cousin Bruce Elliot when he saw the boy, later identified as Kerry Manhas, 322 Beckley, fall from the wharf.

Russell dove in and dragged the youngster to shore.

A passerby who witnessed the incident told police the boy likely would have drowned if Russell hadn't acted quickly.

During the rescue Russell lost his eyeglasses and his wallet containing $14 — the remainder of his holiday spending money.

He found the wallet and money when he returned to the scene Wednesday but his glasses are still missing.

Gregory said he will explore ways of reimbursing Russell for his loss through one of the policemen's associations.

Madness in metric hits Kamloops

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Metric converters became a handy item for grocery shoppers here city this week as stores began selling food in metric measurements.

Many residents unable to convert pounds to kilograms were left scratching their heads as they watched ground beef go to $2.82 a kilogram from $1.27 a pound.

However, metric conversion displays were set up in some stores and in others, persons were on hand to explain the changes to bewildered shoppers.

The federal metric commission selected Kamloops, Sherbrooke, Que., and Peterborough, Ont. to preview the switch because their residents have typical consumer habits and advertising and market areas do not overlap with neighboring cities.

In Kamloops, shoppers were finding that potatoes at 21 cents a kilogram were the same as potatoes at 10 cents a pound, and cherries at $1.51 kilogram were no more than the cherries that sold Saturday for 69 cents a pound.

Vi Fredslund, manning a metric display at a local Super-Valu store, said the store was busy, but nobody was complaining too loudly.

"Of course, margarine has been sold by the kilogram for quite a while now and milk is sold by the litre instead of the quart," she said. "So it's really not too much of a shock."

However, the new metric system is becoming a bit of a headache for a number of grocery store owners and managers who have been unable to get new measuring equipment.

Gary Cooper, owner of Coopers Stores, said Wednesday his two supermarkets won't be able to make the switch until mid-July, because "the companies that are responsible for providing the necessary conversion equipment have been, in our case, unable to deliver as required."

The switch-over also is proving costly.

Macaulay dumping studied

A proposal to build a dumping station for septic tank-cleaning trucks at Macaulay Point will be considered Wednesday by the Capital Regional Board.

Dave Hill, chairman of the committee wrestling with the controversial plan, said after a closed-door meeting Wednesday it is obvious no municipality or electoral area wants the installation.

He said the board will be asked to consider building it on national defence department land at Macaulay.

He said the committee had become frustrated in its attempts to find a suitable site.

"There doesn't seem to be any sites in the region that are suitable."

If the board approves the plan, Hill said the station could be built in two or three months.

Initially, he said, there would be no treatment facilities at the dumping station.

Meanwhile, Hill said, an emergency bypass lagoon will have to be built to handle overflows at the present dumping site on Millstream Road.

The search for a site was stepped up after the board decided May 9 to table a rezoning bylaw that would have permitted construction of a dump station opposite the new Victoria General Hospital on Helmcken Road.

The tabling motion came when a report was received on an earlier public hearing at which View Royal residents turned out en masse to fight the proposal.

The committee has been meeting behind closed doors because finding a site would involve land acquisition.

Tranquillizer glut rapped

VANCOUVER (CP) — Despite a wide variety of harmful side effects, tranquillizers are used more frequently than any other drugs except aspirin, says a psychiatrist who heads a study group on women's issues for the Canadian Psychiatric Association.

Dr. Susan Stephenson of Vancouver says studies have indicated that between 15 to 20 per cent of women, especially those working at home, are using the drugs, often unnecessarily.

One of the worst effects of the use of the drugs is that women who take them do not have their basic problems resolved, Dr. Stephenson said in an interview.

"The effect is to maintain the status quo and keep women at home coping with their role," she said. "A woman feels empty and doesn't know what to do with her life; the answer is to send her off with a tranquillizer to get her going."

Use of the drugs also produces a variety of undesireable side effects including drowsiness, lack of co-ordination, fatigue, dizziness, blurred vision, headaches, slurred speech, memory impairment, depression, skin rash, constipation, incontinence or retention of urine and fast pulse.

More serious are possible effects on the white blood cells, liver and on fetuses during the first three months of pregnancy.

"I just don't want to blame it on the doctors," Stephenson said. "I think it is quite complicated.

"Part of it is related to how doctors are taught. If a patient comes to the office complaining, doctors because of their training assume it's a disease of which the complaints are symptoms."

Stephenson said if doctors view the problem as a psychiatric disorder, they tend to give drugs rather than looking deeper for problems of stress and strain.

"Added to that is the fact that pharmaceutical companies take advantage of the situation. Every day problems, particularly what is called role strain of women, come to be called disease."

Stephenson said her colleagues fall prey to manipulative advertising which picture women unable to cope with their everyday lives being helped by use of tranquillizers.

She said one company has even invented a disease — "copelessness" — as part of its selling effort.

Forestry unions argue 'final' bids

Three forest industry unions, unhappy with what the industry calls its final offer, made a volley of requests Wednesday as negotiations continued in an effort to prevent a shutdown of the province's forest companies.

The International Woodworkers of America was seeking special pay rate increases for employees in plywood and logging operations and two pulp and paper unions were looking for cost-of-living protection and improved pensions as talks proceeded.

A spokesman for the 120 forest companies and 20 pulp and paper firms said that the employers would reply to the latest union positions today.

There were sessions scheduled with each of the three unions — including the woodworkers, the Canadian Paperworkers' Union and the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada.

All three unions have opted for strike action, if necessary, to back their demands. The pulp and paper unions and 37,500 IWA members in the coastal and southern Interior regions were in a legal position to strike at midnight Saturday when old contracts expired.

The companies have made the same basic pay offer to all three unions. Latest proposal is for a 90-cents-an-hour raise in the first year of a two-year contract and a 9.5-per-cent increase in the second year.

Base pay rate throughout the forest industry now stands at $8.16 an hour.

The PPWC rejected the pact last week, but the CPU and the IWA decided to seek amendments before taking the proposal to their members.

Negotiators for the woodworkers have indicated they want modifications to the industry's offer, including larger pay increases for some sectors.

Jack Munro, IWA western region president, said he hopes the industry will come back with a favorable response today.

"I think that the proposal that is before us now is no doubt a substantial one, but it could be a real good one with some amendments."

Meanwhile, negotiators for the 5,500-member PPWC came back to officials of the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations group Wednesday with a position on pensions and a cost-of-living formula similar to that of the rival 7,500-member CPU.

The pulp and paper unions want pensions for retired workers increased to the same level as those of current employees, a clause that would protect wages against erosion by inflation and provision in their contracts for increased banking of overtime.

While union spokesmen say the proposals are minor, Dick Lester, chief negotiator for the companies, says the cost of the changes being sought could be awesome and will make plants run inefficiently.

A-G may probe call by deputy

Attorney-General Garde Gardom says he is considering an NDP request for an independent investigation into allegations that deputy attorney-general Richard Vogel interferred with the judicial process by telephoning a judge.

Stu Leggatt (NDP — Coquitlam-Moody), a lawyer, said an inquiry should be held into charges by Judge Phil Govan of Richmond that he had been asked to disqualify himself because a ruling he had made would be an administrative inconvenience to the attorney-general's department

Vogel said in an interview that the judge misinterpreted his intentions. The call to Govan was to inform him what action his department was taking, he said.

Gardom defended Vogel, noting that Govan, the lone family court judge in Richmond, ruled April 1 on a case before him that a section of the Family Relations Act was unconstitutional — without hearing any arguments.

The judge refused to hear any more cases related to the act, in effect throwing dozens of actions in the Richmond court in legal limbo until his ruling could be challenged in a higher court.

Gardom said the ministry disagreed with the ruling because the judge had not served notice as required under the Constitutional Questions Determination Act and because no arguments for or against the ruling were heard.

He said the ministry then asked the B.C. Supreme Court to order Govan to proceed with the case under the act, and the higher court did so on April 23.

CP Rail to start cleaning E&N line

CP Rail officials will begin a routine maintenance program Monday along the E&N Railway.

The decision was made Wednesday by CP Rail following a B.C. Pesticide Appeal Board ruling last week to cancel its permit to spray herbicides Bromacil and Tebuthiuron on the line.

Workers, using tamping machines and a ballast regulator, are expected to take about three months as they move north along the line from Victoria to Courtenay.

The tamping machine lifts rails and ties, then smoothes out the undersurface so the rails can be laid level. The ballast regulator picks up and cleans ballast along the track and shoulders.

Delta police seeking details of complaints

DELTA (CP) — The Delta Police Association sent a telegram Wednesday to provincial Attorney-General Garde Gardom asking for specific details of complaints that are to be investigated by the British Columbia Police Commission.

The telegram said the association welcomes an investigation of allegations of wrongdoing but demands the right of members of the force to confront individuals who are making the charges.

Gardom announced Tuesday that the commission would look into complaints about actions of a small number of individual policemen in the Vancouver suburb.

The number and weight of the complaints warranted an investigation of law enforcement in the community, Gardom said.

Detective David Greenhalgh, secretary of the police association, said the allegations of wrongdoing should be dealt with quickly under rules set out by the B.C. Police Act.

"In a democratic society such as ours, an accused does have the right to meet his accuser. We therefore demand this right for our members," Greenhalgh said.

The $700 find is his if . . .

VANCOUVER (CP) — Retired traffic painter John Dewar, 74, may be $700 richer in two months if no one claims the cash-filled envelope he found at a city beach last week.

"I'm an old-age pensioner and I can use the money," said Dewar in an interview. "But the fact is it's not my money and I want the rightful owner to get it back."

Dewar said he found the envelope on the ground near a concession stand at Locarno Beach. He handed it over to police who will hold it for two months in case someone claims it.

He said he hopes the cash is returned to the proper owner, but if he receives the money, he will donate some of it to charity.

"I'm not a religious man but I'm no heathen either. I'd probably give part of the money to an outfit like the Salvation Army."

Principal named

NANAIMO (CP) — Gerald Sylvester, former Vancouver Community College dean of instruction at Langara campus, was appointed principal Wednesday of Malaspina College here.

Sylvester's appointment, effective Sept. 4, ended a year's vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. Carl Opgaard.

A program for small businessmen might be one venture the college could pursue, he said, because small business employs nearly 50 per cent of the province's people.

Business

Noma Ind.

With record sales in the first six months of the year, Noma Industries Ltd. expects to have an all-time high profit in 1979, president Henry Buck told the annual meeting.

Noma and its subsidiaries, which manufacture Christmas decorations, various wire and cable products and garden equipment, have increased orders this year over 1978's record levels, he said.

Sales for the first six months will be more than $31 million, compared with $21.9 million for the same period last year. Profit should exceed last year's $429,000 or 42 cents a share for the six months.

W. Brdcstng.

Western Broadcasting Co. Ltd. has reported net earnings of $3,760,614 or $1.01 a share for the nine-month period ended May 31, compared with earnings of $4,079,948 or $1.10 a share for the same period in 1978.

Frank A. Griffiths, chairman of the Vancouver-based company, said that its two local radio stations, CKNW and CFMI-FM, experienced increased revenues, partly as a result of the recently-settled labor dispute that shut down the Vancouver Sun and Province newspapers for nearly eight months.

Net revenues for the company's broadcast division were $4,189,313, up from $3,903,365 for the same period ended May 31, 1978.

Net revenue from the company's interest in the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League dropped to $295,127 from $1,301,684. Griffiths said, however, that season ticket sales for the next season have surpassed sales to this date last year.

The company has an interest in the hockey club through a 68.5 per cent ownership of Northwest Sports Enterprises Ltd. and Vancouver Hockey Club Ltd.

Western has applied to the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission for approval to merge with Premier Cablevision Ltd., in which it has a 26 per cent interest.

The Western proposal, presented at commission hearings earlier this month in Vancouver, seeks permission to set up a holding company to handle 55 per cent of Western shares and 50.5 per cent of Premier shares.

Griffiths said the federal regulatory agency is expected to make a decision on the merger proposal this fall.

Whonnock

Whonnock Industries Ltd. reported net earnings for the six months ended May 31 were $10.3 million or $3.53 a share, compared with $3.3 million or $1.12 a share for the same period last year.

Whonnock said in a news release sales were $92.9 million, up from $53.6 million a year ago.

The company said the most significant factor in the increases was the inclusion of Bay Forest Products in first-half results. The weakness of the Canadian dollar and the continuation of firm prices in most markets also helped earnings, Whonnock said.

Mt. Logan conquered, despite avalanches

CALGARY (CP) — They faced death many times on the gruelling mountainside, but four Calgary climbers who conquered the country's highest peak agreed Wednesday it was worth every freezing minute of it.

Ruddy from wind and sun after 16 days on Mount Logan in the Yukon Territory, the team led by John Lauchlan, 24, walked into the embraces of friends and relatives at Calgary International Airport.

He was quick to declare their next goal.

"We're going to have a wash and a drink," said Lauchlan.

But there were times when it looked like they might never again have either, Lauchlan said in an interview with fellow climbers Jim Elzinga, 25, Allan Burgess, 30, and Raymond Jotterand, 23.

On the day before reaching the top, Lauchlan crossed a dangerous slope and triggered an avalanche, falling about 22 metres. He was left dangling from a rope tied to Elzinga.

"Jim held the rope while tons of snow fell over me," Lauchlan said.

Elzinga pulled him to safety.

"I screamed 'thank-you, thank-you' at him," Lauchlan said.

The temperature hovered around 35 below zero, winds were fierce, there was constant snow and Jotterand became ill.

"The temperature was terrible," Lauchlan said. "That's why we took 16 days."

An avalanche almost buried a tent in which Burgess was resting.

But they agreed it was worth it.

"It was a really satisfying experience. We really wanted it bad, so we were going to get it."

He said Mount Everest is a possibility in 1982.

Diet foods flunk test

OTTAWA (CP) — A government investigation has found 28 diet food plans fail to meet federal labelling regulations.

Tad Hombek, of the consumer fraud protection branch in the consumer affairs department, said Wednesday the 28 products contain misleading and false information.

Charles Sheppard, chief of the branch's food division, said the investigation started earlier this year after some manufacturers complained others were not complying with new labelling regulations which came into effect last August.

Under the regulations, such meal replacements must contain a minimum level of certain vitamins and minerals which must also be listed on the label.

The declaration of nutrients was absent on 18 products, incomplete on four and declared incorrectly on five, Hombek said.

Nutrition experts in the health department conducted a computer analysis of the vitamin and nutrient composition listed on each product, he said.

"The products must also provide sufficient nutrients so vitamin supplements are not necessary."

Twenty products did not contain the mandatory seven-day diet menu which must be listed on the container, he said.

"Gone are the days when you can put out a (diet) meal plan with something like Nestle's Quik in a package." Quik is a powdered chocolate mix.

However, Hombek said, researchers did not chemically analyse each product to see if label declarations matched with contents.

"We accepted the statements on the labels as fact regarding what was in the package."

He said the net quantity checks as listed on the products were also accepted.

Yet the net quantity statement required by legislation was absent on one product and incorrectly declared on another 15, Hombek said.

Embargo off Irish mail

OTTAWA (CP) — The post office announced it has lifted the six-month embargo on mail to the Republic of Ireland and has resumed deliveries.

Service was suspended at the request of the Republic of Ireland because of labor-management disputes.

Canadian mail bound for Ireland was returned to the senders, a post office spokesman said.

McKinnon to review widows' disability pensions

OTTAWA (FP) — Veterans Affairs Minister Allan McKinnon said Wednesday he and his officials will be taking a long hard look at the 48 per cent rule that denies a veteran's widow a pension in cases where the veteran's disability was below that level.

He said it would not be possible to abolish the rule but he and his officials will be considering a recommendation that those below the 48 per cent be placed on a prorated widow's pension.

McKinnon also said he would like nothing better than to speed up the handling of disability cases. The handling of such cases used to take four or five months now it takes seven to eight months. The minister said the Pension Review Board has to be brought up to strength and the Pension Commission has to have its vacancies filled.

Civil service cuts scheme 'flexible'

OTTAWA (CP) — The government now seems willing to be flexible in implementing a plan to cut 60,000 public service jobs, Andy Stewart, president of the 180,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada, said Wednesday.

After meeting Treasury Board President Sinclair Stevens, Stewart reported: "I think there is more flexibility."

The jobs are to be eliminated by attrition over three years, but the government has not said when the three years will start, and may even lengthen the period, Stewart said.

However, it was clear the government still intended to cut 60,000 jobs, and Stewart repeated earlier warnings that this "will seriously impede operations of the public service."

Stevens has said 40,000 jobs will be cut by attrition in the regular public service and another 20,000 jobs will be eliminated by selling Crown corporations to the private sector.

Stewart and other PSAC executives went into Wednesday's meeting demanding full disclosure of the government's future staffing plans.

He would not say later whether he got it. "I can only report that there were some positive aspects" to Stevens' response.

Stewart would not elaborate, but he said progress was made on two other issues: job security for public service and a PSAC demand that all employees on long-term contracts be made permanent public service employees.

Air fare cut cut

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian transport commission has ordered American Airlines to stop offering half-fare prices on its flights leaving Canada.

The airline began advertising the half-fares with the use of coupons, a practice frowned upon by the Canadian agency which regulates airlines.

Under commission rules, an airline wanting to advertise special fares must first apply for permission.

"In this case they informed us after the fact," said a commission spokesman explaining the commission order.

MISTAKE COSTS GYMNAST INDIVIDUAL BRONZE

Long gets two medals, returns one

SAN JUAN (CP) — Warren Long mopped his brow on the way down from the Pan-American Games medal platform Wednesday night.

"I'd trade this medal for a coke," said the 22-year-old Victoria gymnast, fingering the bronze he had just been awarded in the individual all-round competition.

Moments later, an apologetic Games official tapped him on the shoulder and asked for the medal. There had been a mistake in addition, he explained, and it rightfully belonged to a Cuban.

Long, already a silver medalist in the team competition, gulped his drink giving every sign of satisfaction.

Compared with the scene at the shooting range, where the Mexicans officially protested the loss of a bronze to Cuba in the smallbore rifle three-position event, and at the pool, where American spectators hooted the low marks awarded synchronized swimmer Michelle Beaulieu, the scene was peaceful.

The Canadian team was less than enchanted with the judging in gymnastics but hoped for better things today when the women took a substantial lead from the compulsory exercises into the final phase of their competition.

The Canadians emerged from Wednesday's 14 final events with three gold medals, three silver and two bronze.

Two Victorians won their heat as the rowing competition opened.

Pat Walter and Bruce Ford of Victoria defeated a Cuban boat in the double sculls. The Vancouver eight won its heat and Phil Monckton of Ridley College in St. Catharines won his single sculls heat.

Canadian morale was boosted by Helen Vandenburg's come-from-behind victory over Beaulieu in the synchronized swimming solo event, a second consecutive Pan-Am title for featherweight judoka Brad Farrow of Delta and the triumph of Gord Singleton of Niagara Falls, Ont., over David Weller of Jamaica in the 1,000-metre cycling time trial.

Gold medals were handed out in pairs to Lones Wigger of the U.S. in the individual and team smallbore rifle, Nora Vega of Argentina in the 3,000-metre and 500 round-robin roller skating events and Sergio Suarez of Cuba in team and individual all-round gymnastics.

Wigger already had two golds for his double victory in Tuesday's English match and Vega was a winner in Tuesday's 500-metre race.

Ken Sutton of the U.S., who won Monday in the men's 500 metres, claimed his second roller skating gold in the 500 round robin but Raul Subil et of Argentina broke the American monopoly in men's events by winning the 3,000 metres.

A tenth of a point separated Pat Jones and Robbie Coleman from silver medalists Paul Price and Tina Kneisley in the artistic pairs as Guy Aubin of Montreal and Sylvie Gingras of Granby, Que., took the bronze behind the two American entries.

Guy Lorion of Longueuil, Que., a gold medalist in Monday's air rifle contest, won the bronze behind Wigger and Rod Randolph of the U.S. and shared a Canadian team silver. Canada was shut out of the medals in the individual skeet, won by American shooter John Satherwhite.

Canada moved to the head of the women's basketball standings with a 102-83 victory over Brazil for a 2-0 record as Chris Critelli of St. Catharines, Ont., scored 28 points and Carol Turney of Victoria added 25.

The baseball team's medal chances dimmed with a 4-1 loss to the Bahamas, a first-time competitor in the sport and which has won two of its three starts.

The women's softball team defeated Bermuda 4-3 and the women's volleyball team lost 3-0 to Peru. The men's team (Victoria Budgets) was idle.

Robert Bettauer of Toronto and Wendy Barlow of Victoria won their second-round singles matches in the tennis tournament but Helene Pelletier of Charlesbourg, Que., lost to a Venezuelan opponent.

T-Men deserved better as Irish win squeaker

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

It was a strange evening Wednesday at Memorial Arena.

What at one time appeared to have the makings of a Shamrock rout turned into the best game of the season with the Irish being flattered in their 16-14 win over Nanaimo Timbermen. The T-Men came that close.

Along the way would you believe — that The Rocks blew a nine-goal lead;

— that little Bill Marecheck, smallest of all the Irish, turned tiger;

— that Kevin Alexander of the Rocks won a faceoff illegally and that got Brian Evans of the T-Men annoyed;

— that goalkeeper Mac Maude of Nanaimo twice tried to get out from his duties and then almost became one of the heroes of the piece;

— that it was reserve goalkeeper, suddenly turned bench coach, Earl Nicholson, who made the decision to keep Maude in the game;

— that the Shamrocks closed the dressing room to reporters for whatever reason, and that hasn't happened in years.

Yes, all that as the Rocks moved into first place, one point ahead of Coquitlam Adanacs.

The Rocks led 13-4 at the 14:10 mark of the second period before the T-Men exploded; and, before the Irish could reply the T-Men had tied the score 13-13.

This was 17 minutes and 50 seconds later, the Timbermen scoring nine goals without a reply.

And by all that's fair the Timbermen probably should have won it after coming from that far back, but a penalty to Roger Dubyna — in what was a rough, chippy and vindictive display by both teams — at 16:19 of the third period, gave the Rocks the chance they needed.

By this time the score was 14-14, Randy Bryant having put the Irish ahead 14-13, ending the scoring drought at 14:15, and Doug Angrove, with his sixth goal of the night, squaring matters a few minutes later.

But with Dubyna's penalty, the Rocks connected on the power play with Jim Lynch firing the winner and then 56 seconds later providing the insurance goal.

Marechek, who has been a ball of fire recently, started off as if he was going to break all team scoring records all by himself.

He scored three of the Shamrocks' first four goals. But, following his third, he thought he was a fighter, intervened in a battle between Gord Racette of the T-Men and Dave Lowden of the Rocks and was banished.

But the Irish had gotten the message. They were romping along nicely as they built up their margin, leading 6-3 after one and apparently in command.

Then the T-Men came to life and, taking almost every face-off — Evans figured he lost two but not any after Alexander cheated on one he did lose — and they just missed.

"I always tell the officials if they call the face-off the way it should be called, I'll play it that way. But if the other guy wants to cheat, I'll beat him cheating," Evans said.

Evans beat the Irish both ways and he and Angrove were the pick of all players as the T-Men put on their sensational drive.

Besides getting six goals, Angrove hit four posts, while Evans had three goals and five assists. Former Shamrocks Charn Dhillon and Pete Rushton each had two goals and two assists while Ron MacNeil, another ex-Rock, had three assists.

Maude's unlikely story came when, with the Shamrocks running hot, twice he wanted out. However, Nicholson, his replacement, wouldn't let him. Nicholson got that right when regular coach Larry McNabb was given the heave-ho for jumping on the floor.

Then, when the T-Men got hot, so did Maude.

Alexander had four goals and one assist to lead the Irish. Marechek had three. Lynch, Dan Green and Bryant each had two while singles went to Mike Yeager, Dwayne Ferguson and Bob Cool.

Goalkeeper Scott Marshall didn't enjoy one of his better evenings. He stopped 27 shots, only five in the third period. Maude made 33, 12 in the third.

Why the dressing room was barred was explained by assistant general manager Ralph Baker:

"Bill (coach Bill Munroe) wants it that way."

Yes, it was a strange evening.

Smith posts win

PORTLAND — Roy Smith of Victoria took over on the 40th lap and roared to victory Wednesday in a 100-mile NASCAR Winston West Grand National stock car race.

Smith, 34, collected $2,000 for driving his Pontiac to a first-place finish in the 24-car field at Rose City Speedway.

He thus became the second Canadian to win a race in this series. The first victory was recorded by George Stewart of Campbell River, who won the Victoria 100 at Victoria's Western Speedway in 1977.

Jackie Kuper of Portland finished second in a Chevrolet and won $1,255.

Tim Williamson, 23, of Seaside, Calif., moved into first place in the season point standings through seven races by finishing third in the Portland event.

The point leader going into the race, Bill Schmitt of Redding, Calif., was knocked out of the race after only 10 miles when his Pontiac was forced into the wall when Victorian Rick O'Dell's car spun out on a turn.

Bottlers slip past Saanich

Mike Thomas fired four goals Wednesday to lead Goodwill Bottlers of the B.C. Intermediate "A" Lacrosse League to a 10-9 exhibibion victory over Saanich of the Vancouver Island Junior "B" League at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Frank Wendt, Shawn Dheensaw, Alan Zozula, Gord Christiaens, Leigh Pollock and Doug Barnes added single tallies for Bottlers.

John Horgan and Chris Clark scored three goals each for Saanich and singles were contributed by Gerry Bell, Ken Logue and Dwight Davies.

Mussels stage rally

John Carahaer pitched four innings of one-hit relief as Victoria Mussels rallied from a seven-run deficit to beat Grays Harbor Mets 10-7 Wednesday in a Northwest League baseball game at Grays Harbor.

Larry Pittman's two-run homer in the third inning gave the Mets a 7-0 lead, but the Mussels scored four runs on just one hit in the fourth and took the lead with a five-run sixth inning, capped by a two-run single from Nick Kintz.

Roy Moretti pitched out of jams in the eighth and ninth innings to earn the save for the Mussels.

Mussels return home for a six-game stand with the first three against Bend, Oregon, starting tonight at Royal Athletic Park. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

FRED CREIGHTON

Bruins sign Creighton

Two coaches were named in the National Hockey League Wednesday.

Fred Creighton, 45, fired two months ago as coach of Atlanta Flames, was appointed to succeed flamboyant Don Cherry as coach of Boston Bruins and George (Punch) Imlach was appointed director of hockey operations for Toronto Maple Leafs.

"I feel that Fred (Creighton) has the philosophy to carry on the high standards of play which the Bruins have exhibited over the past 12 years," Sinden said.

Creighton's contract is for two years. His salary was not disclosed.

In Toronto, it was called the perfect marriage as Imlach, who wanted to get back into hockey and Harold Ballard, owner of Toronto Maple Leafs, who was becoming desperate in his scramble to put together a new front office for his club, got together. Imlach, 61, was fired by the Leafs 10 years ago.

"I did a lot of thinking about it," Imlach said. "I didn't think that I'd get back. But then I thought maybe I am a little crazy. I put all my thoughts together and said we'll give it another try."

The hiring did not come as any surprise. His relationship with Ballard has always been a warm one.

"It wasn't me who fired Punch," Ballard said. "It was Stafford (Smythe, then Ballard's partner)."

Imlach said his first task would be to hire a coach. Ballard released Roger Neilson last month.

Borg blasts Connors

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Bjorn Borg pounded Jimmy Connors 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 in the semi-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships today and was one match away from making modern tennis history.

Borg advances to Saturday's final, in which his opponent will be the winner of the other semi-final between Roscoe Tanner and unheralded Pat DuPre. If Borg wins, then he will become the first man since 1913 to win four consecutive Wimbledon crowns.

Borg improved his record against Connors to nine wins against 10 losses. But the 23-year-old Swede has won the last three encounters against the 26-year-old Connors.

Meanwhile, Martina Navratilova was trying to forget all about her appointment with Chris Evert Lloyd in Friday's women's singles final by concentrating on today's doubles, in which she is trying to help Billie Jean King to a record 20th Wimbledon title.

"It will be just the doubles that matter Thursday," Navratilova said after crushing 16-year-old Tracy Austin 7-5, 6-1 in the semi-finals Wedesday. "Last year I didn't play at all on the day before the final. This time, I will be going all out in the doubles. It will help take my mnd off the singles."

The powerful champion reeled off nine straight games against Austin, who was bidding to become the youngest Wimbledon finalist this century. Navratilova's biggest problem was the umpire, who couldn't pronounce her name.

Lloyd had an equally easy semi-final win in beating Evonne Goolagong Cawley, the 1971 champion, 6-3, 6-2.

Only three Islanders in first day's top 20

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rob Laing of Prince George and two longshots from the Vancouver area fired three-under-par 68s Wednesday to share the first-round lead in the British Columbia amateur golf championship.

Joining Laing at the head of the 160-man field were 19-year-old Brian Eccleston of North Vancouver and Brad Eward of Pitt Meadows.

They were one stroke ahead of three others going into today's second round of the 72-hole tournament at Marine Drive Golf Club, where the field will be cut to the low 80 and ties after the second round and to the best 50 and ties for Saturday's final round.

Tied at 69 were 19-year-old Fred Couples of Seattle, one of the pre-tournament favorites, Fred Kato of Pitt Meadows and Dan Okholm of the host club.

Steve Berry, also of the Marine Drive, was at 70.

Vancouver Islanders were struggling in the opening round and only three of them finished among the top 20. John Russell of the Glen Meadows course near Sidney and Don Budd of Comox were among six players tied at par 71 and Ian Harper of Nanaimo was another stroke back.

Doug Roxburgh, seeking his seventh provincial title, three-putted the final two greens yesterday for a 73. He had fought back to par after being five-over after 11 holes. He eagled the 12th and birdied the 13th, 15th and 16th before finishing bogey-bogey.

Okay, so it rained on you.

Just when you were all set to get those matches played before the second-round deadline in the sixth annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis tournament, we had to have a wet holiday weekend.

Oh well, you can't win 'em all. But we have to have some winners and pretty quick, too, if we're going to get through all the rounds that are left before our wind-up weekend Aug.18 and 19.

We did get some results — of those games played before the rains came — but there are still quite a lot more to come in, particularly in the men's and boys' singles events.

So prompt have the women been, in fact, that we have every single result of second-round matches played in both the girls' and women's singles and players in those two events have advanced to the quarter-final stage. That means there's only one more round to be played before the semi-finals and finals Aug.18 and 19 at Oak Bay's Henderson Park.

When all the second-round results are in, the men's field will have been cut from a whopping 118 to 32 (leaving three more full rounds to get through before the semis) and the boys will be down to the last 16. The mixed doubles, too, will be down to the last 16 couples when we get in another four results.

Because of the rain and the numbers involved, we've decided to extend the second-round deadline to 5 p.m. next Monday, July 9. That gives you another weekend to get the games played. A warning, though: Any scores not in by Monday will result in both parties being disqualified.

Interesting, indeed, some of the results have been — and a little surprising.

Biggest shock was the ousting of last summer's finalist, Glenn Johnston, in his first match in this year's boys' singles event. Glenn, who had a bye in the first round, was nipped, 9-8, by Terry Wong.

Another surprise came in the women's singles where young Kathy Meredith, twice a finalist in the girls' singles and a women's event semi-finalist last summer, went out, 6-2, 6-1, to Lila Jay.

And there was a near upset in the men's singles when last year's boys' event runner-up Kerry Chan scraped through, 9-8, against Daryl Yuen.

One former Times Tourney champ nearly didn't make it. Perry Evans, winner of the boys' singles title two years ago and twice a men's singles semi-finalist, was given quite a fright in his first match with Mick Goodger before he rallied to win, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

There were many other close ones, too, as the competition gets stiffer and the games more exciting. Like Tim Hoare's 7-6, 6-4 win over Alf Hass and Ron Williams' 10-9 squeaker over David Cowan.

And the men haven't had it all their way for excitement in the second round, either. With games tied at 9-9, Carolyn Jones required good fortune in the tiebreaker to shade Margaret Mainwaring, 10-9.

And in the girls' event, Carol Lauzon needed three sets to down Halana Langlois, Joan Thomas was also taken to the three-set limit before defeating Tracy Weisgarber and Cory Aspden pulled off an exciting 6-4, 7-5 win over Kathy Grenke.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers scored a touchdown and a field goal late in the fourth quarter to defeat visiting Saskatchewan Roughriders 16-10 in a Canadian Football League exhibition game Wednesday night.

Each team finishes the exhibition season with one win and three losses.

The fourth-quarter touchdown, on a six-yard pass from quarterback Dieter Brock to wide receiver Gord Paterson, was only the second major for the Bombers in four exhibition games.

Place kicker Bernie Ruoff kept the Bombers in the game with field goals in the second and third quarters, and added another field goal with less than two minutes remaining to play. He also converted Paterson's touchdown.

The Roughriders did all their scoring in the second quarter, on a 12-yard run by Molly McGee and a convert and 45-yard field goal by Reg Boudreau.

Turnovers and penalties were costly to both sides. After a scoreless first quarter, a face mask infraction that followed a Saskatchewan punt gave Winnipeg excellent field position for Ruoff's 17-yard first field goal.

Later, an interception by linebacker Roger Goree put Saskatchewan near midfield. Mike Strickland moved the ball 42 yards in two carries, setting up McGee's score.

Ruoff's final field goal, a 35-yard effort at 13:40 of the fourth quarter, followed a series of plays set up by an interception by defensive halfback Reggie Pierson.

Paterson's touchdown, at 12:16 of the fourth quarter, came after a 34-yard punt return by Ron Mabra put the Bombers in good field position and Brock moved the team 40 yards on six plays for the major.

In the only other game to end the pre-season exhibition season, fullback Brian Duncan scored two touchdowns to power Toronto Argonauts to an 18-13 win over Ottawa Rough Riders before 19,450 chilled fans in the Canadian capital.

No-hit victory

Nancy McLachlan pitched a no-hitter Wednesday while guiding VI 90 Vicettes to a 5-1 Victoria Senior Women's Softball League victory over Butler Brothers at Hyacinth Park.

In another game, Pam Jones fired a three-hitter as Island Dryco Breakers blanked Strathcona Stingers, 5-0.

McLachlan was tagged for a run in the first inning on a walk and an error but she settled down to retire the next three in order and didn't allow another baserunner the rest of the way.

Diane Daniels connectes for two hits in three trips to the plate for Vicettes.

Jones struck out seven batters while pitching the Stinger win. Sally Hollett and Doreen Newton had two hits each and Newton scored the winning run on an error.

At Central Park, Elks-Athletics held on to edge Strandlund Brothers 5-3 in a Stuffy McGinnis Men's League game.

Elks were ahead 5-1 in the seventh and final inning when relief pitcher Ken Fox gave up two walks, two singles and two runs. But Fox managed to end the threat by striking out losing-pitcher John Kilgour.

Wally Popoff, Mike Wallace and Lou Vermette stroked two hits each to lead the Elks-Athletics' offense.

In another Stuffy McGinnis game at Sooke Athletic Park, Mel Nelson pitched a four-hitter and drove in two runs to lead K&R Sooke to a 3-0 shutout over Juan de Fuca Builders.

At Heywood Avenue Park, Jim Miller smashed a homer and a double and pitched a seven-hitter to spark Victoria Athletics to a 4-2 Heywood Men's League victory over Capital Builders.

Dwayne Robinson, who had a home run, and Bruce Kielbisk also came up with two-hit efforts for A's.

In Macdonald Men's League play, Mayfair Insurance nipped Strathcona Hotel 6-5 and Trafalgar Legion dropped The Saints 3-1 at Macdonald Park.

Buttons retained

George Ferguson and Eric Ware of Uplands retained the Victoria District senior golf buttons for the fifth straight time Wednesday by defeating Jim Milrath and Terry Whittaker of Glen Meadows on the 17th hole at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Before the judge

A 23-year-old inmate at the Jordan River forestry camp had two months added to his sentence after pleading guilty Wednesday in provincial court to being unlawfully at large last month.

Robert Zeilstra was given the sentence after Judge Fred Green learned it was Zeilstra's second conviction this year. Zeilstra was convicted Feb. 21 in Burnaby of escaping lawful custody and was given a 30-day sentence, consecutive to a term he was serving.

Crown counsel Don Laughton told the court Zeilstra was convicted of two counts of arson and three counts of theft Oct. 31 and was given terms totalling 16 months.

On June 11, Laughton said, Zeilstra was noticed missing during an afternoon count at the forestry camp but a subsequent search of the area was unsuccessful.

About midnight, an off-duty guard who was going home spotted Zeilstra walking along West Coast Road about a half-mile from the village of Jordan River.

A Sidney man who turned 21 today was given a 15-day jail term by Judge Blake Allan after pleading guilty to causing a disturbance in the Sidney Hotel on Jan. 17.

Richard Wayne Davis, 2190 Amelia, was also placed on six months probation and ordered to pay for damages to the hotel.

Crown counsel Clint Kittle said Davis was escorted out of the hotel at about 10 p.m. after being involved in a fight and tearing two shirts and some styrofoam.

He returned to the hotel later that evening and asked a waitress why he wasn't being served. She told him he was barred until June 6. He became abusive to the woman, and then went up behind a waiter who had a full tray of beer and shoved him. The waiter hit his head on a table, lost consciousness momentarily, and the tray of beer fell to the floor.

Two teen-agers who wouldn't leave Dunsmuir Secondary School when requested by vice-principal Fred Pye were each fined $200 by Allan, who found them guilty of failing to leave school property when requested under the Public Schools Act.

Pye spotted 18-year-old Gregory Robert Twyman, 2632 Shelbourne, and 17-year-old Ernest Gerald West, 1736 Duchess, inside the school about 11:25 a.m. on Nov. 30. They said they were visiting a student but were told to leave.

Pye saw them again shortly after inside the school and they became abusive when requested to leave. Pye told Colwood RCMP the pair stopped near a classroom and disrupted a class by waving.

Police were called and saw them near the west doors of the school. They were taken to the principal's office, where they were interviewed and arrested.

Green denied bail to a 26-year-old man charged with possession of cocaine for the purpose of trafficking.

Ronald Norman MacAulay, 3266 Cook, was arrested June 16 near Mount Tolmie and had been in custody since that date.

Defence lawyer Derek Brindle elected trial by judge without jury and a preliminary hearing was set for July 13.

Fined for drinking-driving offences were: Hugh Pritchard, 52, of 1716 Haultain, $350; James Clinton Isaac, 19, of 3281 Galloway, $350; and Michael Jacques Richer, 24, of 2513 Fernwood, $325.

Jury back in Ross trial

After a three-day absence, the jury in the B.C. Supreme Court murder trial in Victoria of Tommy Ross Jr. was recalled today.

The jury was excused last Thursday to allow Mr. Justice Alan Macfarlane to decide matters of law.

Ross, of Los Angeles, is charged with the Mother's Day slaying May 14 last year of 26-year-old Janice Forbes in her apartment at 1017 Queens.

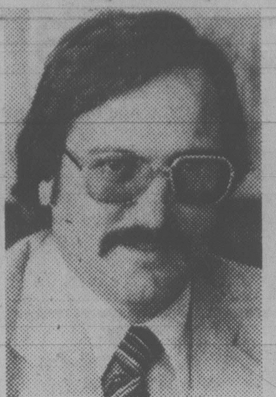
Hold up on submissions to new B.C. ombudsman



FRIEDMANN
. . . ready Oct. 1

B.C.'s first ombudsman will open shop Oct. 1.

Dr. Karl Friedmann, 40, sworn in Wednesday, says he will not be ready to accept complaints until then because that's when the law governing his office comes in effect.

He said any complaints received before then — and he has received more than 200 — are returned to the person making them so other action can be taken before it is too late.

Instead of dealing with public complaints, he will spend his next few months hiring between 15 and 25 staff for the new office.

Friedmann, formerly an associate professor of political science at University of Calgary, is an acknowledged expert on the ombudsman position.

He was appointed to the six-year, $52,000-a-year post on the unanimous recommendation of an all-party legislative committee — a decision ratified unanimously earlier this year by the legislature.

"This will give me a chance to put into practice what I have been preaching for years," said the German-born Canadian citizen who came to this country in the late 1960s after attending universities in Germany and Britain.

Disco comes to holy temple

PEKING (AP) — Peaches and Herb, a U.S. disco team, swayed and sang today to blaring recorded music in the Temple of Heaven, once sacred to China's emperors.

A crowd of 150 bemused Chinese, including tots of kindergarten age brought to the scene, joined the two entertainers under a broiling sun.

Urged by a director to raise their hands in the air and sway their hips, the Chinese seemed to enjoy the experience.

The Temple of Heaven is a 15th-century compound made of circular halls topped by blue and gold tiled roofs. Until the monarchy was overthrown in 1912, emperors came to the temple to offer prayers for a good harvest and report important events to heaven.

The magnificent Altar of Heaven, made up of concentric marble rings, was the spot where the emperor raised his hands to the skies and communed with the spirits above.

The disco performance took place in the courtyard just adjacent to this holy spot.

The Chinese, now atheist under a Communist regime, visit the temple by the thousands every day but it has lost its religious connotation. Had any Chinese or foreigner desecrated the temple in imperial times he would without question have been separated from his head.

Another controversial statement from Kramer

Scott's World

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD — Stanley Kramer, a producer-director whose 40-year career is steeped in controversy, has completed what may be his most inflamatory film, The Runner Stumbles, a love story between a priest and a nun.

Kramer tackled nuclear war in On The Beach, Nazi criminal trials in Judgment at Nuremberg, racial issues in Guess Who's Coming to Dinner, and social conflict in Inherit The Wind.

His films have gathered 85 Academy Award nominations along with critical acclaim and brickbats heaved by detractors.

A thick-skinned idealist, Kramer is inviting a tidal wave of criticism in The Runner Stumbles which he says is the best picture he's ever made.

The story, set in a 1927 in an abandoned mining town, stars Dick Van Dyke as a disenchanted Roman Catholic priest and Kathleen Quinlan as a dedicated nun sent to his rickety parish. It is based on a true 1915 murder case involving a priest accused of killing a nun.

Kramer expects Catholics will accept The Runner Stumbles more easily than non-Catholics after showing his film to groups of priests and nuns in New York City and Toronto.

"I had to face, sooner or later, the reaction of 50 million Catholics," said Kramer, a Jew. "The best means was to show my film to the people most directly involved.

"It came as a surprise to me that the nuns and priests were all for the movie. Ninety-five percent of them told me the problem of love between nuns and priests, sworn to chastity, was something they had to face every day.

"It's a moral choice of the loneliness of love for humanity as opposed to love of another mortal human being. Physical, passionate love.

"The priests and nuns accept the terribly difficult issue of people who have made vows and are faced by an admission of love.

"In the 1970s nuns and priests fall in love almost every day and leave the church. But in 1927 the situation was scandalous.

"This is more than a love story. It challenges the basic tenets of our times. The Catholic church has undergone such transformations that it is far ahead of the general public in dealing with this human conflict.

"My picture examines the credos, beliefs and shibboleths of all society. It asks what men and women are to believe in today. It questions our values. How strong are our vows, even those of a priest and a bride of Christ."

All of Kramer's 35 films, even the comedy It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World and horse opera High Noon, were social documents which clamor for intellectual and emotional response in audiences.

Not all of Kramer's films were successful at the box office. From time to time he was stifled by studio bosses, his stories blunted.

As a filmmaker he has been more independent than most. For The Runner Stumbles, he sought outside fianancing from Melvin Simon Productions which gave him total artistic carte blanche.

Because of the nature of the film, Kramer is taking great pains to release the The Runner Stumbles on a personal basis. He will open it in five selected theatres in October, accompanying the film in each city to promote it himself.

A year and a half ago Kramer packed up his family and moved to a suburb of Seattle "to escape the Hollywood environment."

Kramer's move was motivated by his own moral conflicts.

"Anyone who has been through the mill as I have is confronted by today's values," he said. "In an era of the Vietnam war, Watergate, the first moon walk and political assassinations, a man finds himself asking what he believes in.

"The question of morality is asked in The Runner Stumbles. Although the picture is set in 1927, the conflict is applicable today."

Kramer filmed his movie entirely on locations in Roslyn, Wash., less than 100 miles from his new home.

"I've returned to the true concept of independent production, as I did in the beginning with Champion," Kramer said. "I'm more than 1,000 miles away from Hollywood influences and so is my picture.

"Roslyn was the perfect location. There already was a church on a hill, a general store, a schoolhouse and slag heaps.

"We transformed Roslyn (population 1,000,) into Solona, the Michigan town where the real story took place. Although the crew is from Hollywood, we used local residents as extras and in small roles.

"This is Dick Van Dyke's finest performance. And Kathleen Quinlan has the texture to become one of the great film actresses if that's what she wants.

"I never thought I'd make a 'woman's picture.' Sure, it's a love story but The Runner Stumbles also gives me and, I hope, audiences, something to believe in."

The total Conservative receipts, including contributions from corporations and other organizations, were $5,464,510. But the party spent $5,469,830, representing a deficit of $5,320.

The Liberals had a deficit of $27,698 with total receipts of 15,017,511 and expenditures of $5,045,209.

The New Democratic Party received a 90-day extension on the June 30 deadline for filing a 1978 financial statement.

R. G. Dube, director of the election financing branch, said Wednesday the party asked for the extension because it was busy with the May 22 federal election campaign.

The largely Quebec-based Social Credit Party's statement showed it received $187,092 from 4,428 individuals. Total receipts for the year were $231,660 and the party spent $277,791.

Among the party's contributors were the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, the Toronto Dominion Bank and the Banque Provinciale Canada, which donated a total of $5,000.

The Conservative and Liberal statements show that both parties attracted substantial financial support from public and private corporations.

The Conservatives received a total of $879,669 from 220 public corporations, including $51,000 from Denison Mines Ltd., and $1,745,672 from 7,820 private corporations.

The Liberals gained $1,054,838 from 435 public corporations and $1,433,176 from 4,586 private corporations.

Several companies and banks made almost identical contributions to both parties. The Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. gave $15,000 each to the Liberal and Conservative parties. The Power Corporation of Canada gave the Liberals $26,373.96, compared with $25,998.50 to the Conservatives, and Northern Telecom Ltd. contributed $27,000 to the Liberals, $2,000 more than it donated to the Conservatives.

Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. gave $31,678.75 to the Conservatives and $30,000 to the Liberals.

Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., however, gave the Conservatives $41,000, substantially more than its $27,200 contribution to the Liberals.

The Bank of Montreal and the Royal Bank of Canada gave each party $25,000. The Bank of Nova Scotia contributed $20,000 to the Liberals and $20,098.75 to the Conservatives.

The Liberals also received $400 from the Canadian Conference of Teamsters, the party's only contribution from a trade union.

Trade surplus up sharply

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a trade surplus of $216 million in May, up sharply from a disappointing surplus of $115 million in April, Statistics Canada reported today.

The federal agency said preliminary figures on merchandise trade show that exports rose 5.4 per cent in May to a seasonally-adjusted $5.13 billion while imports rose only 3.4 per cent to $4.91 billion.

But although the regular trade report showed an improvement over the previous month, the trade surplus to date this year stands at only $757 million compared with $1.82 billion in the same period in 1978.

Canada had a record trade surplus in 1978 of $3.52 billion, up from $2.9 billion in 1977.

Statistics Canada noted that imports have been generally increasing more rapidly than exports since last fall but this trend towards greater growth in imports seems to be slowing.

Despite the country's huge merchandise trade surplus last year, there was an overall deficit of $5.2 billion in financial dealings with other countries in 1978 when these other costs were taken into account.

In the same period a year ago, exports totalled $20.82 billion and imports stood at $19 billion.

Statistics Canada said the recovery in exports in May was the result of improved sales of raw materials and fabricated products such as chemicals, iron and steel, metals and woodpulp.

There was also an improvement in sales of so-called end products. In this category, sales of automotive products increased 5.5 per cent after a 15 per cent decline in April. Sales of trucks and automotive parts showed an increase while exports of passenger cars declined for the fifth consecutive month.

May exports of aircraft and other transportation equipment rose 41 per cent over April to $200 million and sales of industrial machinery increased 16 per cent to $200 million. Statistics Canada noted that there continues to be strength growth in exports in this category.

Highrises face fire orders want to be caught in a conflict of interest.

Committee chairman Ald. Larry Ryan was not allowed to vote, so the matter was left in limbo for the time being.

There was no quarrelling, however, over the eight highrises.

To be posted as unsafe buildings are: Seaview Towers, 450 Dallas Rd.; Beacon Towers, 240 Douglas St.; Bickerton Court, 250 Douglas St.; Goodacre Towers, 350-360 Douglas; Princess Patricia Apts., 701 Esquimalt Rd.; Regent Tower Apts., 415 Michigan St.; Charter House Apts., 435 Michigan and Lord Simcoe Apts., 450 Simcoe.

Two buildings which have already been posted and now face prosecution are the Leland Apts., 2512 Douglas and Fisgard Apts, 820 Fisgard St.

Those two buildings both received a fire chief's notice in June, 1978.

Also discussed at the meeting was the Empress, which was served a notice in July, 1978 and posted on Sept. 15, 1978.

Rape report goes to MLAs

cases among conventional families.

"Families that are marginal socially and economically, are more subject to exposure by social workers and the courts while better-off families can hush things up" the report said.

"One social worker who is willing told me that sexual assault of children that she sees is only the tip of the iceberg and that there is need for public education of a massive sort," Ms. Goldsberry said.

Native Indian women are also among the many unnumbered victims of rape, with studies indicating that they are discouraged from proceeding with charges because of police bias.

"It is the author's belief that native women experience rape as a fact of life at an even younger age than the average white victim."

Statistics also indicate that rape is relatively more frequent in less urbanized areas. In 1977, the number of police-reported rapes was 69 for every 100,000 people in Vancouver while in Nanaimo the rate was 105, in Kamloops it was 74 and in Victoria it was 33.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom has promised the legislature that he will take a hard look at some of the major recommendations in the report.

Among the proposals are:

—Victims of sexual assault be given the choice of being interviewed by a male or female investigator;

—Where female police officers are not available a victim advocate be provided to assist in the investigation;

—Standard procedures be adopted by all hospitals for the handling of suspected rape cases.

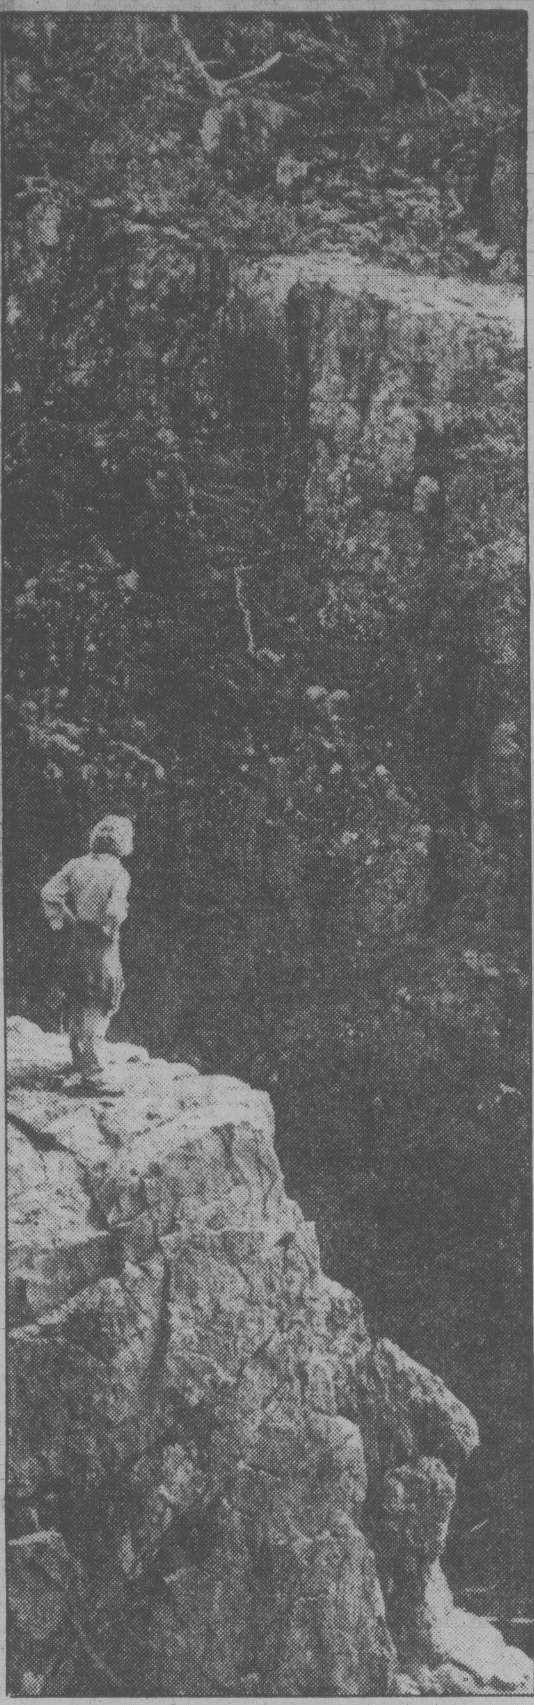
Walk of the Week

East Sooke serenades its hikers

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff



O'Brien Point offers grandstand seat at western boundary of the park

For some people no area in the capital region equals 3,500-acre East Sooke Park for walking.

It certainly has a lot to offer — a trail winding around a five-mile rugged coast with small sandy beaches and rocky bluffs, and trails leading to hilltops with superb scenic views of the Olympic mountains and surrounding waters.

The Indians of long ago called this area the Land of Melodious Sounds or Sea Sounds.

It you walk along the coast and listen, you'll know why.

Each bay or beach has a different sound as the sea splashes over the rocks, ledges and pebbles or pounds against a rocky bluff.

The park abounds in Indian legends surrounding Malmuck, the warrior, and Swaneset, the sorcerer or transformer who shaped its hills and rocks.

The most popular walk is along the shoreline trail — about five miles — starting from Iron Mine Bay on the west side or Aylard Farm on the east. Allow yourself five hours.

This gives plenty of time to relax, enjoy the scenery and take a leisurely break for lunch.

But there are shorter walks. From Aylard Farm walk to Beechey Head then turn east on Indian Way, now used as a fire road, back to the farm.

At the foot of Indian Way at Beechey Head there is a flat area where you can still see the remains of a magic circle.

About 100 yards up this road there is a trail on the right to the coast — about a 20-minute walk.

Then there is the walk around O'Brien Point which forms the westerly boundary of the park — a promontory jutting into the sea with its head pointing directly to Donaldson Island.

This promontory is known as Malmuck, after the famed Indian warrior who was turned to stone by the magician Swaneset for pursuing Soo-ah, a beautiful princess.

The princess, the legend goes, was turned into a spirit island — Donaldson Island — just out of reach of her pursuer.

When a westerly wind blows, the legend says, you can hear the sighs and groans of Malmuck.

The route to the park is via Metchosin Road, turning west on Happpy Valley Road to Rocky Point Road, along Rocky Point to East Sooke Road and Becher Bay Road. The park entrance is at the end of Becher Bay Road. Another entrance is on Pike Road, near the end of East Sooke Road.

Policing cost crunch faces Central Saanich

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Inflation and a growing crime rate has Central Saanich police force fighting for its existence.

And the situation could lead to RCMP policing of the area.

Mayor Jean Butler, chairman of the police board, said Wednesday something will have to be done soon if the disbanding of the 10-man police department, B.C.'s smallest municipal police force, is to be averted.

Butler said in an interview police costs are rising at such a rate the municipality is fast reaching the point where it can't afford to have its own department and provide the level of service residents have come to expect.

The police budget accounts for about 15 per cent of the municipal budget this year.

At a meeting last week, police board members expressed alarm over soaring costs and decided to study alternative policing methods with the view to cutting costs.

The decision came after the board turned down a request by Chief Bob Miles for four additional officers.

Miles argued the extra manpower is essential to combat a growing crime problem in the 20-square mile, largely rural municipality.

The board agreed to add one more officer, bringing the force's strength to 11. That increase was covered in the $415,000 police budget which was approved by council in May.

Butler said several options are open, among them a greater sharing of services provided by neighboring forces..

The ultimate, however, would be to have the RCMP handle all policing in the municipality on a contract basis and that would mean the end of the municipal force.

In 1973 council asked the RCMP to take over the policing, but the national force declined saying it didn't have sufficient manpower.

The situation now has changed and the RCMP is reported to have a surplus of officers in B.C.

Butler said she will ask the RCMP for a cost breakdown to police the municipality.

She said the request doesn't mean the board favors switching over to the RCMP.

"All we are interested in at this stage is in gathering all the facts we can. The name of the game is to cut costs."

There would undoutedly be savings to the municipality if the RCMP took over, provided the size of the force didn't alter.

Miles noted the municipality would save close to $100,000 a year, based on the current cost-sharing formula which has the province paying half the costs for the first five members of the force and 75 per cent of the costs of the next five.

But if the municipality goes this route it would lose its direct control over policing, something the Central Saanich residents have cherished ever since the municipality was incorporated in 1951.

6 face charges in paint spree

Five youths and a 16-year-old juvenile boy have been charged with paint-spraying Mount Douglas senior secondary school on Gordon Head Road June 16.

Saanich police detective Inspector Robin Stewart said they were arrested this week following an investigation into the incident which saw numerous graduation slogans painted on the outside walls and doors of the school.

Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Stewart said the youths were released on their own undertaking to appear in court later in the month on wilful damage charges.

He said all are from Greater Victoria but none apparently a student at the school.

Visitor flow from U.S. holding up

Despite the U.S. gas shortage, the number of American visitors to Victoria is holding at about 1978 levels — and Canadian business is significantly higher, according to a survey of local hotels, restaurants and transportation companies.

The total number of tourists is up about 12 per cent, said Visitors Information Centre president Ed Higgin.

The increase has come mainly from the Lower Mainland, the rest of B.C. and the Prairies.

Traffic on the Princess Marguerite around the July 4 holiday was down four per cent from last year, a drop so low it could be mainly the result of weather.

The load for the first four days of July totalled 4,694, an average load of 1,173. The Marguerite capacity is about 1,500.

In the same period last year there were 4,921 passengers, an average of 1,230.

Hotels reported they did not detect any decline in the number of U.S. visitors staying overnight.

Most downtown hotels were full. One hotel reported 60 per cent of its guests were American, the same as last year. Another reported 35 per cent of its guests were from the U.S., also about the same as in July, 1978.

And a third said it detected a decline in walk-in American guests but this was balanced by an increase in the number of Americans coming to the hotel in chartered buses.

Stores and restaurants also reported an abundance of U.S. cash, although no increase over last year.

But heavier spending by Canadian tourists was evident.

Traffic on the B.C. Ferries is up about 15 per cent.

Meanwhile, July tourist traffic from the U.S. was generally down across Canada, in some cases as much as 50 per cent from last year.

Concerns about the gas supply were the main reason given by Americans for not driving north.

Victoria was not affected as much as some other centres because of the direct city-to-city service of the Marguerite and the closeness of Seattle to the Canadian border.

Canadian service stations near the border have noticed an increase in the number of U.S. cars stopping for gas. Some return to the U.S. as soon as their tanks are full but most carry on to Vancouver or Victoria.

Did same bandit score again?

A cool bandit who robbed the Imperial Bank of Commerce at 1555 McKenzie of $2,000 Wednesday afternoon may have been the same person who held up a bank in Oak Bay last month, Saanich police said today.

Insp. Robin Stewart said the robbery was almost a carbon copy of one that took place at the Toronto-Dominion Bank at 2533 Estevan on June 18.

Stewart said the man, wearing a curly close-cut reddish brown wig, entered the bank at 1:30 p.m. Simulating a weapon under his coat, he passed teller Leona Erickson, 23, a brown paper bag on which was written: "Put all the money in the bag. Don't say anything."

She stuffed about $2,000 in the bag and the man walked casually out the door and disappeared.

Stewart said there was one other customer in the bank at the time but neither the customer nor other staff members knew of the robbery until after the bandit had left.

He described the man as about five feet eight inches tall, medium build and in his mid-20s.

In the Oak Bay robbery, a man of similar description — except for the wig — got away with about $1,200 after he handed a teller a brown paper bag with a note demanding money.

De Roo won't get involved in school fight

Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo says he won't become involved in a hiring dispute at St. Joseph's Catholic School on Burnside.

De Roo said he will intercede only if the school board, parents, and staff can't solve their problems internally.

"It would be unfair to jump on them immediately."

Principal Roger Heaton resigned last week because he said the board fired two teachers without proper notice. He said morale is at an all-time low because of the board's autocratic attitude.

But De Roo said he believes the board is reconsidering its position and will hold a meeting with all parties in the dispute.

Whelda Steeves, president of the parents group, said a meeting is in the works and an official statement should be made next week.

Catholic school boards are undergoing growing pains under the new Independent Schools Act, De Roo said.

Government regulations have imposed a great deal of uniformity, particularly in the auditing of their books, he said.

Earlier this year St. Andrews Catholic School parents called for the resignation of the board, after a disagreement over handling of the school's finances.

De Roo said St. Andrews settled its problems and he believes St. Joseph's will also come to an agreement without his involvement.

Board chairman Emily Hudson could not be reached for comment.

Heaton's recommendations that a superintendent be hired to oversee board operations, and that one district-wide board replace a number of small parish-elected boards, are being studied, De Roo said.

Heaton also wants an investigation of the powers held by the boards, but the church will not conduct an investigation on the basis of one letter, De Roo said.

Review of the constitution is an on-going process and trustees meet constantly to discuss it, he said.

CHANGING THE GUARD on Belleville Street? Right, and ceremony goes on every day between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Operators of the Heritage Village tourist attraction hope to draw crowds with drills based on the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace. Eight air cadets have been trained by an English drill master. They will march along Belleville every day until September. (Bill Halkett photo)

New trial bid for ex-lawyer

A new trial will be sought for a former Victoria lawyer serving a life sentence for the murder of her cousin.

Vancouver lawyer Robert Gardner said he has turned up new evidence he says strongly suggests Marion Hamilton, 69, took her own life.

Elouise Roads Wilson, 49, was sentenced to life in prison in June, 1977, after being convicted in the strangulation death of Hamilton in the woman's Shaughnessy mansion.

A coroner's jury ruled her death was the result of a homicide after hearing evidence she died as a result of asphyxia from a ligature.

Gardner has written to Senator Jaques Flynn, Canada's new justice minister, seeking a meeting to ask for a new trial for Wilson.

Spicy goodies galore in city food market

By LORRAINE LOCHERTY
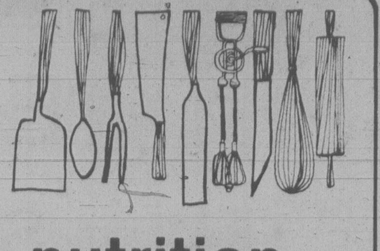
Times Staff



Craving Madras curry, chana dal, or some really hot chutney?

Spices, sauces and other foodstuffs from around the world not available in the average supermarket can be found in Victoria's only ethnic specialty food store.

If that special item isn't on the shelf at Ajeet Market, owners Naunihal Sandhu and Pira Dhariwal will order it.

Ajeet Market, at Quadra and Tolmie, is sort of an international grocery store that stocks the basic staples of many different cultures.

When the store opened in 1975 it stocked mainly East Indian foods, taking advantage of contacts in eastern Canadian wholesaling firms to supply goods quickly and on a regular basis.

But every time they received a request for another time of exotic root or bean the store's inventory grew.

Most of the spices, beans and dried foods come from India and Kenya. Fruits and vegetables are shipped twice a week from Fiji, Mexico and the West Indies.

There are few well-stocked ethnic specialty stores on the West Coast and Ajeet Market receives orders from as far away as San Fransciso, but most out-of-town requests come from Vancouver Island and the Vancouver area.

Sometimes, when one of Victoria's ethnic restaurants runs out of fragrant Vasmati rice or is having trouble finding one of the more exotic spices, the market comes up with it.

It does a brisk business in tropical fruits such as breadfruit, and papaya and vegetables like purple yams and hot chili peppers.

Almost every nut imaginable from almonds to pistachios is available.

One entire shelf is stocked with snacks like Chana Dal — dried, salted and roasted gram beans that are flavored with hot spices. The store also carries four different varieties of melon seeds.

On the floor are large sacks of special flours and pure oils like saffron and olive oil.

Basic flours, beans and rice can be bought in one-pound bags or taken in much larger quantities from sacks kept in the back of the store.

More native Canadians are starting to pop into the store for a look around and even a venture into ethnic cooking.

The following curry dish is from a cookbook called Tasty Dishes of India, available at the market.

Its a fairly simple recipe that makes a satisfying meal when accompanied by papadums, wafers made from lentil flour and deep fried in hot oil, or chapaties, a tortilla-like Indian bread.

CURRIED BEEF

2 lb. lean beef
2 onions, sliced
2 tomatoes
1 cup yoghurt (optional)
4 tbls. butter
2-3 beads garlic
1 tbls. coriander
½ tsp. turmeric
1 tsp. cumin
½tsp. cayenne
salt.

Cut the beef in small pieces. Brown onions in butter, add spices, curd and remaining ingredients, except for the garlic and meat; pulp the garlic in water and add to the onion. Fry for 15 minutes.

Add the meat and sufficient water to make gravy. Cook very slowly for 30 minutes.

Menu for a healthy heart

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Dr. Jean Mayer
Dr. Johanna Dwyer

Happily, recent years have seen a clear trend in menu planning that follows the four general rules for a good anti-coronary diet:

—Reduce the amount of total fat in your diet and cut down on foods that contain a lot of cholesterol as well as altering the types of fat you eat to favor polyunsaturated oils.

—Watch your calorie intake. Try never to overeat, whatever the occasion. Engage in some form of regular exercise to keep caloric intake and output in balance, and lose weight if necessary.

—Cut down on your total consumption of salt.

Such a regimen really represents a healthy and moderate way of eating, not just for men, boys and women over the age of menopause who are most at risk, but for the whole family.

Following these rules involves making careful and thoughtful food choices. And given the fact that 50 per cent or more of our daily food fare is prepackaged and preprocessed, that means learning to read food labels.

For example, let's start with one of the best examples of good substitute foods — the many different brands of polyunsaturated margarines. Margarines contain the same number of calories per serving as butter; they contain vitamin A to the level usualy found in butter; some come unsalted, like unsalted butter.

The key to choosing margarines lies in the breakdown of fat content on the label. In general, the ratio of polyunsaturated to saturated fats should be at last 3 to 2. For anyone on a serious cholesterol-lowering diet, the higher the ratio the better. If you find no fat breakdown on the lable, you can safely assume that saturated fats predominate in the particular brand.

Mayonnaise, on the other hand, may or may not have a nutrition label. Try to pick a brand that does and, again, contains a good ratio of polyunsaturated to saturated fats. In addition, there are imitation mayonnaises with considerably fewer calories than the regular type.

Whole eggs and organ meats like liver and kidneys are our common dietary sources of large amounts of cholesterol. There are several egg substitutes on the market in which the egg yolk (the part containing the cholesterol) has been removed, and polyunsaturated oils, such as corn or soybean, have been substituted. If you look at the fat-breakdown on the label, you will see that there is a slight difference between the brands in the degree of unsaturation.

Generally, the calorie content is about equal to that of a whole egg. People on a low-sodium diet, however, should also be aware of the sodium content. In two brands whose labels we examined it was higher than that of a whole egg: 130 to 150 milligrams per serving, as opposed to 70. Certainly no salt should be added in cooking. The same thing is true of imitation meat products. Usually made from soy protein, they have, as you will see from the label, an acceptable ratio of polyunsaturates to saturates and no cholesterol, which is absent from all vegetable products.

One group of products whose labels bear very close examination is the so-called non-dairy creamers. The word "non-dairy" implies a low content of saturated fat but, in point of fact, many creamers are made with coconut or palm oils, which are very highly saturated.

If you must buy a creamer, at least be certain that it contains soybean or another polyunsaturated oil. We recommend you substitute the real thing, in the form of skim or low-fat milk, which supplies calcium, riboflavin and other essential nutrients, and leave the substitute on the shelves.

When it comes to sugar and salt in processed foods in general, some forward-looking manufacturers are beginning to indicate the percentage in their products, but for the most part, the only way to get an idea of how much of either food may contain is to read the ingredients listing, where the contents are listed in descending order by weight.

Grease on your garage floor may wash away if you cover the area with washing soda then sprinkle on water. Let stand overnight; flush the soda with a forceful spray from the garden hose.

But wear boots; washing soda full strength is strong enough to remove paint and varnish.

If you left your auto lights on for hours, don't try to start the engine. Turn off lights; wait at least half an hour for the battery to cool down. Then, if you battery was in good shape before your forgetfulness, the engine will start quickly. The wait could save the cost of a service truck to jump your battery. Keep your battery in good condition for such emergencies.

Popcorn salt is expensive when compared to table salt. You can save a few pennies by putting table salt in the blender and reducing it to a fine popcorn salt, and you'll use less of the fine salt.

custard

Slice strawberries; add sugar and set aside. Carefully place on small crepe, best-looking side up, into small custard cups or muffin tins. Gently tuck one into each space, carefully arranging the ruffled tops into an interesting pattern. Line bottom and sides of crepes with sliced strawberries. Pour custard into cups. Top with strawberry slice. Chill thoroughly. Makes 6 servings.

CREPES

4 eggs
1 cup flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup milk
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon melted butter

Beat eggs in a medium size mixing bowl. Gradually add flour and sugar alternately with milk and water, beating until smooth. Add melted butter and continue beating until batter is uniform. Refrigerate batter for one hour.

When cooking crepes, it is not necessary to grease pans having a non-stick coating. However, others should be brushed with oil or butter. To cook the crepes, heat pan over medium-high heat. With one hand, pour in approximately ⅓ cup of batter. At the same time, lift pan above heat with your other hand. Immediately tilt pan in all directions, swirling the batter so it covers the bottom of pan in a very thin layer. Work quickly before batter cooks too much to swirl. Return to heat and cook until bottom is browned. Then carefully turn with spatula. Brown other side for a few seconds. Remove from pan with spatula; stack on plate or tray. Makes 15-20 crepes.

CUSTARD

⅓ cup sugar
1½ tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¾ teaspoon vanilla

In large saucepan combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Blend together milk and egg yolks. Stir small amount of milk mixture into dry ingredients, making a smooth paste. Gradually blend in remaining milk mixture. Cook over medium heat stirring constantly until mixture boils and thickens. Boil, stirring constantly, one minute. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla. Cool quickly by setting pan in bowl of ice or cold water and stirring for a few minutes.

Leftover crepes can be refrigerated for up to two days or frozen for up to four months. Place a sheet of waxed paper between each crepe and cover tightly in a container or seal in a plastic bag.

Lessons: many sour notes

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: LONG-SUFFERING DAD, critical of parents who force their children to take music lessons, said: "I think forcing music lessons on a child is a form of child abuse!"

You let that go by without comment, Abby. For the record, I'm among those who resisted music lessons, preferring football, basketball, baseball — anything to an hour's daily practice. But my mother forced me to continue taking piano lessons and to practise an hour a day.

After about 10 years I got pretty good at it, and have enjoyed playing the piano for much of my life. I also learned a great deal about discipline, poise under pressure at recitals, as well as the joy of music.

If forcing music lessons on a child is "child abuse," what would you say to forcing a child to learn English, history, math and science? Most youngsters would prefer to run free to "do their own thing" rather than something that demands concentration, discipline and a commitment of time and effort.

Sign this, "Forced to Learn and Glad of It" . . . or . . .

BOB L.

DEAR BOB: My mail ran about 50-to-1 against "forcing music lessons on kids." Now hear this:

DEAR ABBY: I read with special interest the letters on forcing children to study music; I was part of that scene for many years.

I taught piano for over 50 years. When I first started I charged 50 cents a lesson, and those days that was a lot of money to most people.

Some of my beginners hated piano from the start and wanted to quit, but their parents wouldn't hear of it, so they'd come for lessons week after week without having looked at their music books. What a waste of time! Theirs and mine.

A few of my students were so hopeless I threatened to quit giving them lessons, then their parents would beg me to keep them, and of course I did — partly because I needed the $2 a month and partly because I reasoned that what little they learned would be better than total ignorance.

There are some parents who use a musical education as a form of discipline. They are convinced that it builds a child's character to do something he hates!

FORMER PIANO TEACHER

DEAR TEACHER: Most kids are forced to do two things they "hate" every day: 1) get up in the morning; 2) go to sleep at night.

A referendum will be held in Quebec to determine whether or not the province should remain within Confederation. Referenda are not new on the Canadian scene. The federal government held a referendum on prohibition in 1898, and another on conscription in 1942. Prior to becoming the 10th Canadian province in 1949, Newfoundland held two separate referenda in attempts to determine its political status. Interestingly enough, many of the controversies which currently surround the staging of the Quebec referendum also surrounded the referenda in Newfoundland.

Understanding Referenda is a bilingual 39-page book that examines the Newfoundland referenda of 30 years ago. The book also contains case histories of referenda that were held in five foreign countries: Australia, Ireland, Norway, Denmark and England. All of these referena dealt with the issue of whether or not a political unit should enter or break away from membership in a larger political unit.

To obtain a free copy of Understanding Referenda, write to the Canadian Unity Information Office, Box 1986 Station "B", Ottawa, Ont. K1P 6G6. Please request the book by name.

An easy chicken dish . . . and yet so elegant

the 60-minute gourmet

One of the greatest boons to fine and hasty cookery in the past decade or so has been the more widespread appearance in supermarkets of skinless, boneless chicken breasts.

They have a multitude of uses in the preparation of meals to be made in less than an hour and in many cases, much less. They can be breaded and sauteed in butter. They can be cooked simply and quickly under a broiler or on a hot grill. Poached briefly, they can be used in many other dishes.

One of the best dishes to be made with these breasts is as elegant as it is easy to prepare. These are chicken breasts, Mornay. Mornay, perhaps the most useful and versatile sauce in the French kitchen, is simple white or cream sauce that is seasoned with cheese.

The preparation of the dish is basically as follows: The skinless, boneless breast pieces (two chickens yield four breast halves) are seasoned and cooked briefly on both sides. The cooking time is only about two minutes to a side. In the recipe that follows, mushrooms are added and the ingredients are cooked, covered, for five minutes. As this cooking proceeds, you may prepare — or start preparing — the cheese sauce, which requires less than 10 minutes, start to finish. The sauce-covered breasts, topped with parmesan, are baked until hot and bubbling and the dish is ready for table.

A simple dish of buttered noodles with a salad would be ample to serve with this dish. For a contrast in flavors, a salad made with tomatoes and cucumbers would be desirable, but so would a green salad with an oil and vinegar dressing.

Either a dry red or a dry white wine would be recommended for this dish. I would prefer a good burgundy or a California wine.

Chicken Breasts Mornay

2 large whole, skinless, boneless chicken breasts
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
3 tablespoons butter
4 cups thinly sliced mushrooms
3 tablepoons flour
1 cup milk
½ cup heavy cream
Pinch of cayenne pepper
1 egg yolk
¼ cup grated gruyere or Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon finely grated parmesan cheese

1. Split each chicken breast in half lenghthwise to make four pieces.
2. Sprinkle the chicken pieces with salt and pepper.
3. Melt one tablespoon butter in a heavy skillet. When it is very hot, add the chicken and cook until lightly golden on both sides, about two minutes to a side. Sprinkle the mushrooms over and around the chicken pieces. Cover and cook about five minutes. Do not overcook or the chicken will become dry.
4. Transfer the chicken pieces to a baking dish, using a slotted spoon, remove the mushrooms and arrange them over the chicken pieces. Let the cooking liquid remain in the skillet.
5. Meanwhile, melt the remaining butter in a saucepan and add the flour, stirring with a wire whisk. When blended and smooth, add the milk and cook, stirring, until the mixture is thickened and smooth.
6. Spoon the sauce into the skillet and bring to the boil, stirring. Add the cream, bring to the boil and add the salt and pepper to taste and cayenne pepper. Let simmer about five minutes.
7. Remove the sauce from the heat and add the egg yolk, stirring rapidly with a wire whisk. Add the grated gruyere and stir until melted. Add any drippings that may have accumulated around the chicken and mushroom. Stir.
8. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees.
9. Spoon the sauce over the chicken, smoothing it over to cover neatly. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Place the dish in the oven and bake about 10 minutes or until the chicken is piping hot and the sauce bubbling.
10. Run the dish under the broiler until mixture is nicely browned.
11. Serve with buttered noodles and salad.

CUCUMBER AND TOMATO SALAD

1 cucmber, peeled and cut into cubes, enough to make one cup.
1 pint cherry tomatoes, stemmed and cut in half, about two cups
½ teaspoon finely chopped garlic
2 teaspoons red wine vinegar
3 tablespoons olive oil
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

1. Prepare the cucumber and tomatoes and set aside.
2. Combine the garlic, vinegar and olive oil, salt and pepper to taste. Beat thoroughly with a whisk.
3. Add the cucumber and tomatoes and parsley. Toss gently to blend.

Yield: 4 servings.

Being a newspaper carrier is one of the best ways to learn some all-important lessons.

Carriers learn that just having a job feels good. That people sometimes really do slam doors in your face (no matter how nice you are). They learn how to handle money, including the responsibility of handling somebody else's. They learn that a job, unlike a ball game, doesn't get called off because of bad weather.

And they learn that most wonderful feeling—the satisfaction of a job well done.

If you know a young person who might like to try being a carrier for our newspaper, have them call our circulation department, or stop by.

Hostel outlook cloudy

By PAUL MINVIELLE
Times Staff

Anybody wanting to stay at hostels travelling across Canada this year should pass on Victoria.

Unlike most major cities in Canada and the rest of the world, B.C.'s capital city doesn't have a hostel.

Graham Bell, operations director for the Canadian Hostelling Association, said Tuesday his group has no substantial leads on a possible Victoria site for its operation, something it has been seeking for several years.

Bell said the association has stepped up the search in the last couple of years in response to an increasing number of requests for hostel accommodation in Victoria.

Most hostel patrons are young, and in addition to the attractiveness of a clean room for $1 to $3.50, they can look forward to meeting fellow travellers.

Bell's comments came in the wake of news that the William J. Stewart, a hydrographic vessel well known along the B.C. coast, has been let out to tender by the Crown Assets Disposal Corporation.

The association tried last year to convince the federal government that the marine survey vessel would have made an ideal floating hostel in the Inner Harbor. But the ship was offered to the public for sale last week, sinking the association's hopes of a buoyant hostel.

There are about 600 CHA members in Victoria, and there are plans to launch a fund-raising campaign soon.

"We've looked at a lot of old buildings that we might have used as a hostel," said Bell, "but the costs of renovating anything are prohibitive."

Cool-Aid, a group that helps young people, has offered its facilities but while the CHA is grateful it would rather have a home of its own. Also, many of the requests for hostel space come from school groups, and Cool-Aid isn't equipped to handle them.

The association would like to have a hostel in Victoria with about 100 beds and room for expansion. The organization operates a pack and boot shop on Yates Street that is also used as a membership office, with one full-time employee and one part-time assistant.

Province-wide, Bell says the 6,000-member association is doing well, despite the fact it now has five regular hostels and one "bed-and-breakfast" operation, compared to nine hostels last year.

YOUR HEALTH

Little chance that TB will strike new hubby

My daughter is engaged to a lovely young man. Our only concern is that he had mild tuberculosis about six years ago. He has been completely cured. But we worry that the condition might come back. Is it safe for her to marry him? Could she become infected? — Mrs. C. J.

Dear Mrs. J.:

Since your future son-in-law has been completely well for so many years, the chances are great that he will not have a recurrence of tuberculosis. Nevertheless, it is wise that all cured patients be under the supervision of a doctor so that any new flare-up can be spotted immediately, treated intensively and cured completely.

His own doctor has undoubtedly taken repeated X-rays and done regular sputum tests in order to be certain that no residual tubercular infection is perfected.

It is most desirable that your daughter and her fiance have a combined consultation. Only in this way can all their questions be clarified, thus giving them the assurance that is so essential before embarking on marriage. They will, I am sure, want to know if the eventual children born in the family will be exposed to any greater risk than other children. Your daughter will learn, too, that since her husband is free of the infection, there is no possibility of her developing tuberculosis.

It must be understood that tuberculosis is not an inherited disease. This was a mistaken notion years ago because the inefection so often occurred in more than one person in a family. The explanation for this, of course, is that tuberculosis is contagious.

You may submit as many entries as you wish per game, but each must be in a separate envelope.

THE NAME GAME

Rules and Procedures

Object of "The Name Game": To become eligible for prize drawings by matching letters of the alphabet, published in the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist, with the letters in your name. Each game starts with a Saturday Times and ends in the Sunday Colonist two weeks later. The official entry form will be published every day. All members of a family may play. There is no age limit. You may enter more than once but only one entry per envelope may be submitted. As each game ends, you are invited to play the next game.

1. Using the official entry form or a reasonably hand-drawn facsimile (no mechanically reproduced forms accepted), start at the upper left hand corner and print your name continuously, one letter in each square, until all the squares are filled in. (For example, if your name is John Anderson, Sample 1 shows how to fill out your entry form.) Do not include punctuation.
Use your legal name, in a form which can be verified on your driver's licence, social security card or other official identification. You may use various forms of your first name (e.g. John, Jonathan or John S.), as long as your identity can be verified. No nicknames, please.
2. Letters for the Name Game will be published as follows: 4 letters Saturday and Sunday and 3 letters daily. When an official letter matches one in your diagram, circle it on your entry. That letter may appear in more than one square on your diagram, but you may circle only one such letter (of your choice) each time. Since individual letters are selected at random, they may appear more than once — even on the same day. You may circle one such letter as many times as that letter is published. The same letters will be published in the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist but may only be used once in any one entry.
3. When you match enough letters to complete one row on your diagram — horizontal, vertical or diagonal (corner to corner), as in Sample 2, you are eligible for the prize drawings for that game. Drawings for 15 prizes will be held every other week for 10 weeks. At each drawing $500 goes to the first name drawn, $100 to the next —, $50 each to the next 3, and $25 for the last 10 — (Winners must answer a time-limited skill-testing question before collecting prizes.) All names drawn will be returned to the drum for the grand prize drawing.
4. Mail your completed entry form to: The Name Game, Victoria Press, P.O. Box 1390, Victoria, B.C. V8W 3C4; postmarked no later than the Monday following the end of that game. Completed entries may also be delivered, in a sealed envelope, to Victoria Press, no later than Tuesday, the following day. The game number (such as 'Game 1', 'Game 2', etc.) must appear at the lower left-hand corner of the envelope.
5. All entries will be placed in a container and the winning entries will be drawn at random. Winners will be announced in the Colonist and Times on the Friday following the close of each game. The odds of winning will depend on the number of eligible entries received.
6. It is not necessary to buy the Times or Colonist to participate. Copies of the newspaper may be inspected free of charge at the newspaper's offices during regular business hours. Sorry, official letters will not be given over the phone.
7. Employees of the newspapers and members of their immediate families are not eligible to participate. Unclaimed or invalidly claimed prizes will be donated to a recognized charity at the close of the contest.
8. Winners agree to allow publication of their names, pictures and publicity in the Times and Colonist without additional consideration. Submission of an entry indicates acceptance of all game rules.
9. Decisions of Victoria Press judges in all matters relating to the The Name Game will be final.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Let's assume you're declarer in four hearts and West leads the K-A of diamonds, East playing the eight and then the deuce to show a doubleton. When West continues with the jack you ruff in dummy with the nine, which East overruffs with the jack. Having lost the first three tricks, you later try a spade finesse. This unfortunately fails and you finish down one.

If you are at all disturbed by the outcome and start to wonder whether or not the contract could have been made, you discover that you could have — and should have — made four hearts.

It all goes back to your play at trick three when you ruffed the third round of diamonds in dummy and East overruffed. It would have been wiser to discard a spade from dummy instead.

For practical purposes, this play would have assured the contract. Whatever West played next, you would draw trumps as soon as possible, cash the A-K of clubs and A-K of spades, then play your queen of clubs and discard dummy's last spade on it. This would eliminate your spade loser.

It may seem odd to say that the best method of play is to make no effort at all to win the third round of diamonds — when there is obviously a chance of winning the trick by ruffing high in dummy. After all, from your point of view, East might have been unable to overruff dummy's nine.

But the fact is that, under the circumstances, it is much better to let West win the jack of diamonds at trick three. By doing so, you virtually eliminate all chance of losing a spade trick later on. The long-term view of protecting the contract takes precedence over the short-term view of winning the trick.

HOW TO WRITE

CLASSIFIED ACTION

AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

The Lord is my Shepherd
I shall not want
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures
He leadeth me beside the still waters
He restoreth my soul
He leadeth me in the path of righteousness for his name sake
Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me
Thou anointest my head with oil
My cup runneth over
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever.

GARDENING
Jack Beastall

Large gardens were quite in order when a head gardener and three apprentices worked from sunrise to sunset for a few dollars a week.

Today the head gardener is the person who owns the property and the apprentice, if there is one, some member of the family who reluctantly assists when unable to think of a reasonable excuse!

The result is small gardens, often cluttered through horticultural zeal or from lack of proportion between plants and planting space.

Since the modern garden, however small, is supposedly designed for relaxation its relaxing effect on the human mind depends on spaciousness.

It is a fact, whether we recognize it or not, that we move with more freedom outdoors than in a room, and in the garden we claim more space for table and chairs. Having no walls to limit our movements we naturally take advantage of our freedom.

In a small garden space it is limited as it is indoors, but we use every means possible to create the illusion of more space than the property lines enclose. But these illusions will disappear in a few years if the choice of plants turn the outdoor living room into a jungle.

Therefore plantings must be carefully planned and plant choice limited to small groups or repetitions of a few well suited plants.

Many of us have tried the perspective rule for the illusion of more space, the tapering of a path as it retreats into the distance, but the ruse is soon discovered by those who walk the path. Better to keep the paths full width and taper the side plantings.

The actual open space, whether it be grass or paved, should be as broad as the site will allow, uncluttered by plants.

A circular lawn can appear more spacious than a square or rectangular area of grass. When circles are used with discretion they contribute to the tranquillizing effect so essential to relaxation.

The levelling of a property can be expensive, or hard work for the owner, but spaciousness always goes with flatness in a miniature landscape, as it does in a natural landscape.

When a lawn tips sharply up or down it is foreshortened to the eye. In a small garden this is overcome by separate levels.

Steps should be broad with low risers, and paths wide enough to permit two people to walk side by side, the paths outlining the open space rather than interfering with the lawn or paved areas.

Turning a path to one side in the distance is another way or extending a restricted area by illusion, and becomes a real surprise when it leads only to a concealed feature (pool, seat, or unusual plant) instead of the compost heap or garbage can.

Spaciousness also depends on the character of the plantings. Too many species can be interesting, even exciting, but also oppressive. Restraint can create a more open and broader picture than exuberence.

Each property owner will have a different idea of what constitutes a small but restful garden, but application of these proven basic layout suggestions will prevent work and money being expended on a design which will defeat its own purpose as the plantings develop.

Two jailed for selling marijuana

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Two men were jailed Wednesday for selling single bags of marijuana after a Crown prosecutor asked the court to impose stiff sentences as a deterrent.

James W. Beckett was sentenced in provincial court to 18 days in jail and Jeff Owen Jansen was sentenced to 12 days after they sold marijuana to undercover RCMP agents May 16. Both are from Kamloops.

Prosecutor Robert McDiarmid called for jail sentences, saying small drug transactions openly conducted were becoming a community problem.

Another Voyager approaches Jupiter

NEW YORK (NYT) — Another American spacecraft is speeding closer and closer to the spectacular environs of Jupiter and its large and varied moons. Voyager 2, an identical twin of Voyager 1, which reconnoitered the Jovian system last March, is transmitting photographs of Jupiter every day now as it approaches its rendezvous on Sunday and Monday.

Flight controllers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif., reported that the 1,800-pound spacecraft was operating smoothly. For months, however, since its primary radio receiver failed, the spacecraft has been relying on its backup system to get commands transmitted from earth, and that system has had some problems of its own, although project engineers have developed ways to circumvent the difficulty.

Besides taking more photographs of Jupiter from different perspectives, Voyager 2 is expected to return the first high-resolution pictures of Europa, the only one of Jupiter's four major satellites with which Voyager 1 did not have a close encounter. Voyager 2 will also attempt to get more detailed photographs of the thin ring of particles that Voyager 1 found circling Jupiter. In addition, Voyager 2 will conduct a "volcano watch" while passing Io, a change in the mission plan prompted by Voyager 1's discovery of active volcanism on that moon.

The second Voyager's trajectory is such that it will encounter the four major moons during its approach to Jupiter rather than on the outward passage, as done by Voyager 1. This will enable the spacecraft to obtain photographs and other data from the opposite sides of the moons.

In addition to wide-angle and narrow-angle television cameras, Voyager 2 carries a number of other instruments for studying cosmic rays, low-energy charged particles, the planet's magnetic fields, temperatures of the planet and its moons, and the atmospheres and other properties of Jupiter.

Sunday — Closest approach to the moon Callisto (133,600 miles) at 9:13 a.m., Eastern daylight time.

Monday — Closest approach to Ganymede (38,600 miles) at 4:06 a.m., Europa (128,000 miles) at 2:43 p.m. and Jupiter (404,000 miles) at 7:20 p.m. The encounter with Jupiter will be more distant than Voyager 1's, which was 173,000 miles.

Monday-Tuesday — The 10-hour Io volcano watch begins at 7:30 p.m., just after the closest approach to Jupiter, and continues until 5:30 a.m. on Tuesday. The watch consists of a sequence of time-lapse photography. The spacecraft's closest approach to Io will be 755,000 miles, but because Voyager 2 and Io will in a sense be flying in formation with each other they will maintain approximately the same distance during the entire volcano watch. Voyager 1, in the biggest surprise of its mission, photographed eight erupting volcanoes on Io, the only place in the solar system, besides Earth, known to have active volcanism.

The times given for all mission events are what flight controllers call "Earth-received times." When Voyager 2 reaches Jupiter, it will be 578 million miles from Earth and at that distance it takes a radio signal traveling at the speed of light 51 minutes 49 seconds to get from the spacecraft to Earth.

Kidney booster found

BOSTON (AP) — A new medicine will lower high blood pressure and at the same time increase the power of kidneys that have been weakened by the disease, a study shows.

The kidneys of people with high blood pressure often do not filter impurities from the blood as well as normal kidneys. And several of the medicines now on the market that reduce blood pressure also weaken the kidneys still further.

The new drug, called SQ20881, was tested on patients by doctors at Harvard Medical School. A report on the study was published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Hope for Times

LONDON (WP) — A major concession by the management of the Times and Sunday Times has revived hope that the venerable London newspapers will resume publication this summer.

The Times management suspended publication seven months ago in a dispute with unions over the introduction of new technology, a dispute that has cost the Times an estimated $40 million in lost revenue and payroll expense.

At an unprecedented meeting last Friday, attended by Lord Thomson, chairman of the Canada-based conglomerate that owns the Times, and leaders of the largest printing union, the management agreed to drop its key conditions that printers accept the sharing of control of the new computerized equipment with journalists in the newsroom.

Thomson and the leaders of the National Graphical Association agreed, instead, that publication of the daily and Sunday Times and their supplements could resume as soon as possible while negotiations over the introduction of new printing methods continue, perhaps for as long as a year.

Following that breakthrough agreement, the Times management met Wednesday with representatives of the more than 50 branches of other unions at the Times to seek agreements that still must be reached before publication can resume. Management still seeks more control over manning and a guarantee against wildcat strikes and stoppages.

Although neither side would discuss many details of Wednesday's talks, the papers' management did offer to reinstate all of the 3,000 employees who were dismissed while the papers were not being published.

"There were no ultimatums and no dates mentioned, about when publication could be resumed," Sir Denis Hamilton, editor-in-chief of the Times newspaper, told reporters.

FEEDING TIME is hectic for Sheba, a 1½-year-old Lab cross, especially as these ten pups aren't her's. Their mother, a golden retriever, died giving birth to them last week, and Sheba, who was about to wean seven pups of her own, was called in as wet nurse. Sheba does get some help, however, from Nancy and Allison who help out with formula fed through eye droppers. (Bill Halkett photo).

All contributions tankfully received

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — The Rev. J. Wesley Prince believes he has precedent in his favor in asking his congregation for donatons of that "most essential liquid" — gasoline.

The records show that the United Congregational Church, which dates to 1696, used to include "kegs of rum or other spirits" in its support of the pastor.

On Sunday, Prince told his congregation a weekly donation of 5 gallons of gasoline, which he called a "most essential liquid," would ensure his arrival every Sunday.

Ben Bella finally free

ALGIERS (Reuter) — Former Algerian president Ahmed Ben Bella, released Wednesday after 14 years under house arrest, is not likely to re-enter politics, informed sources said today.

The flamboyant rebel who led Algeria to independence from French colonial rule had been under arrest since Houari Boumedienne overthrew him in a 1965 coup.

The official Algerian news agency announced President Chadli Benjedid has ordered his release to mark the 17th anniversary of Algerian independence.

Informed sources said it is likely Ben Bella, now 62, will stay away from Algiers and keep out of politics. A spokesman for the National Liberation Front (FLN), which Ben Bella helped to found and now is Algeria's only party, said he is free to apply to join.

Ben Bella is said to be in good health, despite the severe conditions of his detention. It was not known where he now is staying.

Embassy bugs illegal?

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP Security Service has learned that it may be violating an international treaty by bugging foreign embassies here, a royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing was told Wednesday.

Michael Dare, director-general of the Security Service, testified that there is "some question" whether the Mounties, even with a judicial warrant to do so, can bug embassies without violating the treaty.

The treaty, ratified by Canada in the early 1970s, aims at protecting diplomatic personnel.

"Am I going to knock on an embassy door and ask 'Please may I come in'?" the 62-year-old chief of counterespionage in Canada growled.

Dare himself raised the subject of embassies as he was questioned about the legalities of bugging.

He said security service operations have become difficult as a result of "increased sensitivities in recent months," an apparent reference to the spotlight cast on the service by public inquiries. He gave the embassy situation as an example.

Efforts by reporters to question Dare after the hearing were blocked by Pierre Lamontagne, lawyer for the RCMP.

Dare gave no indication which embassies have been bugged and when.

He said the RCMP hasn't yet received a reply on whether or not the practice is legal. Government lawyers were checking with Washington and London to find how their counterespionage agencies handled the problem.

Sentencing delayed month

MONTREAL (CP) — The sentencing of Jacques and Louise Cossette-Trudel for kidnapping British diplomat James Cross in October, 1970, was postponed today until Aug. 7

Chief Judge Yves Mayrand of sessions court said the delay was necessary because a personal problem had disrupted his work schedule, making it impossible for him to finish writing the judgment by today, as originally scheduled.

Sharp still hopeful on pipe go-ahead

OTTAWA (CP) — Northern Pipeline Commissioner Mitchell Sharp has dismissed as premature a Washington report casting doubt on the future of the joint Canada-U.S. northern natural gas pipeline.

Sharp says recent world energy developments have only served to underscore the need for the U.S. to develop the giant $15 billion project that would carry Alaskan natural gas through Canada to the lower 48 states.

Sharp was commenting today on news reports of a draft report to Congress saying it is unlikely sponsors of the project will be able to raise the private financing needed to go ahead with construction.

The project is already two years behind schedule, due largely to regulatory delays in the U.S.

Sharp said in an interview that since the Canadian and U.S. sponsors have not yet made proposals in financial markets it is too early to say they will not succeed in raising capital.

However, he said the timing of the leaked report is "unfortunate" because it could create doubt about the economic viability of the pipeline with prospective investors.

The pipeline, endorsed by the U.S. and Canadian governments, means thousands of jobs and billions of dollars in investment in Canada during the construction period.

Bottle blast action

OTTAWA (CP) — Explosive 1.5-litre soft drink bottles may be banned if bottlers and retailers do not co-operate with a request to voluntarily take them off the market, Consumer Affairs Minister Allan Lawrence warned today.

"Although our regulations to establish standards for the bottles are not yet completely developed under the Hazardous Products Act and although I had hoped that we might be able to apply the Act in a deliberate and technically precise manner, I am prepared to be more arbitrary in my application of it if present circumstances continue," he said in a statement.

A consumer affairs official said the department has received many reports of the bottles still being sold.

Pratte won't seek pension

OTTAWA (CP) — Yves Pratte, who retired after being a justice of the Supreme Court of Canada for less than two years, will not apply for a court pension, a spokesman for the court said Wednesday.,

Pratte, 54, former chairman of Air Canada, announced last week he was retiring for health reasons.

At almost the same time, Transport Minister Don Mazankowski said he was asking for a report from Air Canada on the pension Pratte received when he resigned from the Crown-owned airline Dec. 1, 1975.

Third biker killed

Greater Victoria recorded its third motorcycle fatality in a little over a month Wednesday night when a 21-year-old serviceman died after his bike hit a power pole in the 800-block Esquimalt Road.

Police said the accident occurred at 6:38 p.m. and Plul died in Victoria General Hospital about an hour-and-a-half later.

An inquest is expected to held but no date has been set.

John Henry Pollard, 21, died June 14 after his motorcycle collided with a car on Sooke Road, and Gordon Bernard Kopplen, 21, was killed following a mishap on Newport Road in Oak Bay on June 1.

Joe gave, Pierre cut

The parties' financial statements for the 1978 calendar year show that Clark contributed $1,025, compared with $675 in 1977.

The statements, filed with the chief electoral officer, also show that the Conservative party attracted individual contributions from 35,615 Canadians, an increase of 15,276 over the previous year and 13,265 more than the Liberal party.

Individual contributions to the Conservative party totalled $2,661,175, compared with $1,742,964 in 1977.

The number of persons contributing to the Liberals, however, increased only slightly. The party received $2,101,716 from 22,350 individuals, compared with $1,983,687 from 21,063 persons the previous year.

Although both parties' receipts increased substantially over 1977, they both entered the 1979 election year with deficits.

Somoza's men admit losses to Sandinistas

By KAREN DeYOUNG

MANAGUA (WP) — Five weeks into a guerrilla offensive, the Nicaraguan National Guard has lost control of substantial portions of the country and according to informed sources is now waiting for President Anastasio Somoza to negotiate a political agreement in its behalf.

Sources close to the Guard and within it said there is now little feeling that lost territory can be regained, at least without substantial outside help.

The Sandinista National Liberation Front, one source said, "has some good options militarily. The cards are now in their favor." The guerrillas control most of northwest Nicaragua, including all border crossings into Honduras.

While the guerrillas retreated last week from Managua under massive government bombardment, they control the important cities of Leon and Masaya and are besieging the Guard in Esteli and in the southern provincial capital of Rivas.

The Guard claims it shot down two light planes just south of Managua, saying they were flown by mercenaries but gave no other details. News reports said the planes carried arms for the guerrillas.

The Costa Rican government said that some of Somoza's soldiers tried to cross into Costa Rica to dynamite two bridges on the Pan American highway to trap the guerrillas in the south, but it said the Sandinistas ambushed and killed all but one of the guards.

The rebels launched their attack on Rivas Tuesday after moving north from a strip of territory along the border they held for weeks. Rivas is 40 kilometres north of the frontier on the Pan-American Highway.

Meanwhile, the Nicaraguan Red Cross repeated its appeal for emergency food assistance. Red Cross vice president Wilfrid Cross estimated the organization is now feeding nearly 200,000 people in Managua.

Cross said a "desperate" transport situation last weekend had been somewhat alleviated over the past few days by emergency food flights from several Latin American countries and leasing by the International Red Cross of two planes.

U.S. Ambassador Lawrence Pezzullo returned to Managua Wednesday morning after two days of consultation in Washington. Although Pezzullo last week asked Somoza to resign, the Sandinistas and opposition political groups here rejected a U.S. plan for the transition of power.

Somoza reportedly agreed to resign, but only on conditions relating to the future of his Liberal Party and the National Guard. While Somoza reportedly was told he was in no position to negotiate his departure, U.S. officials are known to be pressing a Sandinista-backed provisional government to expand its membership to include more moderate political and business sectors.

'Aggressive, complacent' society blamed for rape

Men have been conditioned by society to be rapists and women to be the victims of rape, says a report tabled Wednesday in the legislature.

After two years of research for the attorney-general's ministry, author Nancy Goldsberry says in her 232-page report that rape may be learned behavior because society condones the use of physical aggression and violence under some circumstances.

"That this aggressiveness, if not open violence, is nearly exclusive to men in our society has also been substantiated as the norm and not the exception," the report said.

Ms. Goldsberry, a longtime co-ordinator of the rape relief centre in Victoria, was commissioned to write the report under contract to the Justice Development Commission.

Her report said the process which "moulds and legitimizes" women as rape victims is rooted in the same social structure that characterizes male sexuality as aggressive.

It says that in learning female roles young girls are taught to value sexual favors as an item of exchange.

While men are expected to initiate sexual overtures, women are seen as responsible for defining how far these overtures will go.

"Young women, particularly, with apparent sophistication but limited skills, are left with an unsolvable conflict," she says. "If she refuses, she is a man-hater, cold or a tease. If she plays along, further confusion sets in as she is open for further advances."

Ms. Goldberry also said that contrary to common belief, an increase in sexual permissiveness will lead to increases in the number of rapes.

She said the largest percentage of rapes are committed by an acquaintance of the victim, especially where child rape is concerned.

In 1978, between January and June, 32 child sex abuse cases were reported to the human resources ministry. Of that total, 59 per cent involved a paternal relationship between the child and the suspect ranging from natural and legal fathers to common-law.

The perpetrators and victims in child sex abuse are found in all levels of society with the majority of

Gold record topples again

The previous trading record for gold was $284.50, registered in London June 25.

The latest prices compared with $283.50 at the close in London Wednesday night — a closing record — and $283.125 in Zurich.

Gold began the year at about $225 an ounce. Bullion experts predict it will soon hit the $300 mark.

The British pound, meanwhile, jumped to $2.252 in London in early trading, its highest value since June 1975, and up almost three cents from $2.2250 U.S. overnight.

The basic reason for the buoyancy of the pound is Britain's near self-sufficiency in oil, thanks to North Sea reserves.

The U.S. dollar was mostly lower elsewhere, following the July 4 holiday in the United States.

Carter pledges energy action

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — U.S. President Jimmy Carter issued a terse announcement today saying he will propose "a series of strong measures" to curb U.S. demand for imported oil.

The announcement was an apparent attempt to reassure western allies that Carter is not backing down from conservation promises made at the Tokyo summit — a fear raised by his abrupt cancellation of an energy speech scheduled for tonight.

An aide said the statement was issued "to ensure that there is no misunderstanding of the president's intentions."

While no official reason was given for Carter taking the unusual step of cancelling a speech after he had requested special broadcast time for it, one aide told UPI the president apparently "was dissatisfied with the analysis of the issues before him."

Carter has not said when he will reschedule his energy speech.

Union Club escapes fire action

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

Victoria council's fire protection committee today agreed to serve orders on eight city highrises to upgrade fire safety but shied away from posting fire warnings in the Union Club.

The exclusive club was originally warned of its fire safety deficiencies June 22, 1978.

The committee agreed to bypass posting the eight highrises in order to speed up the possibility of court action, but came to no agreement on how to deal with the Union Club.

The first stage is a notice of deficiencies from the chief, next comes the posting of a public notice, third is a fire chief's order to the building owner to upgrade his property and finally, if no action is forthcoming, the prosecutor is called in.

The eight highrises due for posting all received their first warnings Nov. 20, 1978.

The committee decided to bypass the public postings because that would give the apartments 60 additional days in which to comply with safety requirements.

Ald. Robin Blencoe told the committee the building owners have already had plenty of time to act.

Blencoe also urged that the Union Club be posted immediately but failed to get support from the rest of the committee.

Ald. Bill Tindall said aldermen should tour the private club, at 805 Gordon Street, before approving the posting of placards.

"We're making an exception with the Union Club," protested Blencoe.

"We should carry out the procedure we followed with the other buildings."

He said the Union Club was warned more than a year ago, and "They know what's coming."

With Blencoe and Tindall opposed, the committee was hamstrung because Ald. Murray Glazier had left the room because he is a member of the club and didn't

Regular visitors to the 3,500-acre East Sooke Park say each little bay has its own special sound that makes hiking that much more enjoyable.

The Indians for centuries have called the area the Land of Melodious Sounds.

Open books or quit, Prentice told

Royal Jubilee Hospital board chairman Terry Prentice must resign unless he is prepared to open the books and allow full public discussion and scrutiny of the hospital's administration, board member Peter Bunn said today.

Bunn said he believes there has been waste and extravagance in the hospital's administration at the expense of medical services.

"But we cannot discuss the issue because everything the board members get is marked confidential. I've seen more confidential stamps in the past six months than I did in my years with the Eighth Army," he said.

The Oak Bay alderman criticized Prentice for saying hospital costs could be reduced if doctors would request fewer operations.

"As a member of the board, I dissociate myself from his statement."

Bunn said it was an unwarranted attack on the Jubilee's doctors and the medical staff, all of whom are first rate.

"Unfortuately they have not been supported by the administration. Money has been pouring into the administration side of the hospital while medical services have been starved. The problem is mismanagement."

Bunn said he has been trying to get Jubilee board meetings opened to the public but without success.

The issue will be debated again at the next board meeting later this month.

Bunn said with the hospital spending $50 million of taxpayers' money a year, the public has a right to know what is going on.

Bunn said Health Minister Bob McClelland has a strong case in saying the hospital should put its own adminstration in order before seeking additional funding.

At the same time, Bunn said, the provincial government and previous NDP and Social Credit adminstrations are equally to blame for allowing RJH to be converted to mixed use (acute, intermediate and long-term care) when it was designed to be only an acute-care facility.

If the 150 extended-care beds in the hospital could be converted to acute care, as they were originally designed to be, the hospital's long waiting lists could be substatially reduced.

On Wednesday night the Victoria Labor Council passed a motion condemning McClelland and Prentice for opposing the expansion of medical services at the Jubilee.

The council at the same time said Victoria General Hospital should be commended for its courageous stand in saying that it will not reduce its level of medical care even if it runs into a deficit by year's end.

Walk of the Week

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

For some people no area in the capital region equals 3,500-acre East Sooke Park for walking.

It certainly has a lot to offer — a trail winding around a five-mile rugged coast with small sandy beaches and rocky bluffs, and trails leading to hilltops with superb scenic views of the Olympic mountains and surrounding waters.

The Indians of long ago called this area the Land of Melodious Sounds or Sea Sounds.

It you walk along the coast and listen, you'll know why.

Each bay or beach has a different sound as the sea splashes over the rocks, ledges and pebbles or pounds against a rocky bluff.

The park abounds in Indian legends surrounding Malmuck, the warrior, and Swaneset, the sorcerer or transformer who shaped its hills and rocks.

The most popular walk is along the shoreline trail — about five miles — starting from Iron Mine Bay on the west side or Aylard Farm on the east. Allow yourself five hours.

This gives plenty of time to relax, enjoy the scenery and take a leisurely break for lunch.

But there are shorter walks. From Aylard Farm walk to Beechey Head then turn east on Indian Way, now used as a fire road, back to the farm.

At the foot of Indian Way at Beechey Head there is a flat area where you can still see the remains of a magic circle.

About 100 yards up this road there is a trail on the right to the coast — about a 20-minute walk.

Then there is the walk around O'Brien Point which forms the westerly boundary of the park — a promontory jutting into the sea with its head pointing directly to Donaldson Island.

This promontory is known as Malmuck, after the famed Indian warrior who was turned to stone by the magician Swaneset for pursuing Soo-ah, a beautiful princess.

The princess, the legend goes, was turned into a spirit island — Donaldson Island — just out of reach of her pursuer.

When a westerly wind blows, the legend says, you can hear the sighs and groans of Malmuck.

The route to the park is via Metchosin Road, turning west on Happpy Valley Road to Rocky Point Road, along Rocky Point to East Sooke Road and Becher Bay Road. The park entrance is at the end of Becher Bay Road. Another entrance is on Pike Road, near the end of East Sooke Road.

Policing cost crunch faces Central Saanich

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Inflation and a growing crime rate has Central Saanich police force fighting for its existence.

And the situation could lead to RCMP policing of the area.

Mayor Jean Butler, chairman of the police board, said Wednesday something will have to be done soon if the disbanding of the 10-man police department, B.C.'s smallest municipal police force, is to be averted.

Butler said in an interview police costs are rising at such a rate the municipality is fast reaching the point where it can't afford to have its own department and provide the level of service residents have come to expect.

The police budget accounts for about 15 per cent of the municipal budget this year.

At a meeting last week, police board members expressed alarm over soaring costs and decided to study alternative policing methods with the view to cutting costs.

The decision came after the board turned down a request by Chief Bob Miles for four additional officers.

Miles argued the extra manpower is essential to combat a growing crime problem in the 20-square mile, largely rural municipality.

The board agreed to add one more officer, bringing the force's strength to 11. That increase was covered in the $415,000 police budget which was approved by council in May.

Butler said several options are open, among them a greater sharing of services provided by neighboring forces.

The ultimate, however, would be to have the RCMP handle all policing in the municipality on a contract basis and that would mean the end of the municipal force.

In 1973 council asked the RCMP to take over the policing, but the national force declined saying it didn't have sufficient manpower.

The situation now has changed and the RCMP is reported to have a surplus of officers in B.C.

Butler said she will ask the RCMP for a cost breakdown to police the municipality.

She said the request doesn't mean the board favors switching over to the RCMP.

"All we are interested in at this stage is in gathering all the facts we can. The name of the game is to cut costs."

There would undoutedly be savings to the municipality if the RCMP took over, provided the size of the force didn't alter.

Miles noted the municipality would save close to $100,000 a year, based on the current cost-sharing formula which has the province paying half the costs for the first five members of the force and 75 per cent of the costs of the next five.

But if the municipality goes this route it would lose its direct control over policing, something the Central Saanich residents have cherished ever since the municipality was incorporated in 1951.

6 face charges in paint spree

Five youths and a 16-year-old juvenile boy have been charged with paint-spraying Mount Douglas senior secondary school on Gordon Head Road June 16.

Saanich police detective Inspector Robin Stewart said they were arrested this week following an investigation into the incident which saw numerous graduation slogans painted on the outside walls and doors of the school.

Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Stewart said the youths were released on their own undertaking to appear in court later in the month on wilful damage charges.

He said all are from Greater Victoria but none apparently a student at the school.

Visitor flow from U.S. holding up

Despite the U.S. gas shortage, the number of American visitors to Victoria is holding at about 1978 levels — and Canadian business is significantly higher, according to a survey of local hotels, restaurants and transportation companies.

The total number of tourists is up about 12 per cent, said Visitors Information Centre president Ed Higgin.

The increase has come mainly from the Lower Mainland, the rest of B.C. and the Prairies.

Traffic on the Princess Marguerite around the July 4 holiday was down four per cent from last year, a drop so low it could be mainly the result of weather.

The load for the first four days of July totalled 4,694, an average load of 1,173. The Marguerite capacity is about 1,500.

In the same period last year there were 4,921 passengers, an average of 1,230.

Hotels reported they did not detect any decline in the number of U.S. visitors staying overnight.

Most downtown hotels were full. One hotel reported 60 per cent of its guests were American, the same as last year. Another reported 35 per cent of its guests were from the U.S., also about the same as in July, 1978.

And a third said it detected a decline in walk-in American guests but this was balanced by an increase in the number of Americans coming to the hotel in chartered buses.

Stores and restaurants also reported an abundance of U.S. cash, although no increase over last year.

But heavier spending by Canadian tourists was evident.

Traffic on the B.C. Ferries is up about 15 per cent.

Meanwhile, July tourist traffic from the U.S. was generally down across Canada, in some cases as much as 50 per cent from last year.

Concerns about the gas supply were the main reason given by Americans for not driving north.

Victoria was not affected as much as some other centres because of the direct city-to-city service of the Marguerite and the closeness of Seattle to the Canadian border.

Canadian service stations near the border have noticed an increase in the number of U.S. cars stopping for gas. Some return to the U.S. as soon as their tanks are full but most carry on to Vancouver or Victoria.

Did same bandit score again?

A cool bandit who robbed the Imperial Bank of Commerce at 1555 McKenzie of $2,000 Wednesday afternoon may have been the same person who held up a bank in Oak Bay last month, Saanich police said today.

Insp. Robin Stewart said the robbery was almost a carbon copy of one that took place at the Toronto-Dominion Bank at 2533 Estevan on June 18.

Stewart said the man, wearing a curly close-cut reddish brown wig, entered the bank at 1:30 p.m. Simulating a weapon under his coat, he passed teller Leona Erickson, 23, a brown paper bag on which was written: "Put all the money in the bag. Don't say anything."

She stuffed about $2,000 in the bag and the man walked casually out the door and disappeared.

Stewart said there was one other customer in the bank at the time but neither the customer nor other staff members knew of the robbery until after the bandit had left.

He described the man as about five feet eight inches tall, medium build and in his mid-20s.

In the Oak Bay robbery, a man of similar description — except for the wig — got away with about $1,200 after he handed a teller a brown paper bag with a note demanding money.

De Roo won't get involved in school fight

Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo says he won't become involved in a hiring dispute at St. Joseph's Catholic School on Burnside.

De Roo said he will intercede only if the school board, parents, and staff can't solve their problems internally.

"It would be unfair to jump on them immediately."

Principal Roger Heaton resigned last week because he said the board fired two teachers without proper notice. He said morale is at an all-time low because of the board's autocratic attitude.

But De Roo said he believes the board is reconsidering its position and will hold a meeting with all parties in the dispute.

Whelda Steeves, president of the parents group, said a meeting is in the works and an official statement should be made next week.

Government regulations have imposed a great deal of uniformity, particularly in the auditing of their books, he said.

Earlier this year St. Andrews Catholic School parents called for the resignation of the board, after a disagreement over handling of the school's finances.

De Roo said St. Andrews settled its problems and he believes St. Joseph's will also come to an agreement without his involvement.

Board chairman Emily Hudson could not be reached for comment.

Heaton's recommendations that a superintendent be hired to oversee board operations, and that one district-wide board replace a number of small parish-elected boards, are being studied, De Roo said.

Heaton also wants an investigation of the powers held by the boards, but the church will not conduct an investigation on the basis of one letter, De Roo said.

Review of the constitution is an on-going process and trustees meet constantly to discuss it, he said.

New trial bid for ex-lawyer

A new trial will be sought for a former Victoria lawyer serving a life sentence for the murder of her cousin.

Vancouver lawyer Robert Gardner said he has turned up new evidence he says strongly suggests Marion Hamilton, 69, took her own life.

Elouise Roads Wilson, 49, was sentenced to life in prisin June, 1977, after being convicted in the strangulation death of Hamilton in the woman's Shaughnessy mansion.

A coroner's jury ruled her death was the result of a homicide after hearing evidence she died as a result of asphyxia from a ligature.

Gardner has written to Senator Jaques Flynn, Canada's new justice minister, seeking a meeting to ask for a new trial for Wilson.
